British Power Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Britain's power crisis spread to Northern Ireland for the first time Thursday, adding an order for four daily electricity cuts to the province's troubles.

At the same time, the government warned that power cuts already hitting homes and factories across Britain for up to 12 hours a day will be increased next Wednesday unless the crisis is settled. The blackouts in Northern Ireland began at 7 a.m. Friday.

Industry Minister John Davies told Parliament that even with these further cuts, power plants can be kept running only until the end of next week.

After that, a shutdown of all but emergency services is inevitable, he said, halting the bulk of British industry.

Hope of averting additional cuts depends on an early settlement of the six-week-old coal miners' strike that has starved electric generating plants of fuel supplies, Davies added. The power cuts have been ordered to conserve dangerously low supply levels.

A government-named inquiry into the miners' pay dispute planned to work into the night to ready a proposed settlement formula by Friday as promised.

Employment minister Robert Carr asked leaders of the miners union and the state-run Coal Board to be in his office Friday morning to look at the outlines of the inquiry board's recommendations.

The Coal Board has promised to honor any suggestions drawn up by the mediators.

The miners have said only that if the recommendations are acceptable to the union leadership, the pickets outside power plants can be called off immediately and new coal supplies let in.

But the actual end to the strike will have to await a ballot by the union's 280,000 members, a process that should take at least a week.

Removal of the pickets would lift the threat of a nearly complete power breakdown halting British industry. But further delays in getting the miners back to work are expected to keep coal supplies below normal for many months.

Laird—Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Thursday the decision to speed up a new submarine-missile program "is not a bargaining chip" in the U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks, but was dictated by a need to counter growing Russian nuclear power.

Laird denied in an interview that he had changed his position earlier in the day when he first said, "I do not associate" the U.S. submarine-missile speedup with the arms negotiation and later told newsmen any negotiated limitation "will be abided by."

The defense secretary said he has felt all along the new undersea-launched missile system (ULMS) will proceed but that its dimension and scope may be limited as a result of a SALT agreement.

Such an agreement probably would limit numbers of missiles, including submarine-launched, but not restrict improvements or modernization.

This way, Laird said, the ULMS submarine could be phased in as older Polaris submarines are phased out.

"If Congress approves it (ULMS), we're going ahead with it," he said.

President Nixon's position has been that he would not hesitate to order a new round of U.S. strategic weapons into production if the SALT talks were protracted while the Soviets continued to expand their land-and sea-based missile forces.

Britain—Common Mart

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's crisis-beset government won a narrow unofficial vote of confidence Thursday night as the House of Commons barely approved a bill clearing the way for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

The vote in the 630-member house was 309 in favor; 301 against.

Abstentions or absentees numbered about 20.

The size of the majority represented a political setback for Heath, who has made a British linkup with Europe the centerpiece of his government's program. His Conservative party normally commands a majority of 26.

Coming in the middle of Britain's power crisis that has disrupted the nation's life, the vote in the Commons took on the nature of a demonstration of confidence in Heath's administration.

But it was a close and qualified vote that seemed to put him on notice that he will have to tread warily if he is going to retain the backing of the country.

It came after intensive backstage efforts had been made by Conservative party managers to rally dissident followers who oppose British entry into the Common Market.

Heath involved himself personally in the campaign with warnings to some anti-market teers that he would have to resign and ask Queen Elizabeth II to dissolve Parliament and call a national election if he lost.

Heath sat impassive as ex-Prime Minister Harold Wilson, leader of the opposition Labor party, taunted him with the performance of his 20-month-old administration and with the content of the bill.

"Your theme in this debate and in your weekend talks with President (Georges) Pompidou of France have been transmitted into dreams of great power status in candle power Britain," Wilson asserted.

Then the Laborite leader slammed Heath for seeking powers, through the European Communities Bill before Parliament, that would rob the ancient British legislature of the right to make or repeal its own laws.

The issue before the House of Commons nominally was whether to give crucial second reading to a measure that would do two things:

—Legalize Britain's entry into the Common Market by 1973, and —Empower the government to adapt British laws and regulations to those of the Common Market without seeking special parliamentary permission on each.

Begins 'Journey For Peace' Nixon Heads For China

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon set off on his "journey for peace," to China Thursday—a historic mission he said he was undertaking for all mankind in search of a common ground with the long-hostile and isolated Asian Communist power.

The President arrived here on a clear sun-drenched day for a two-day stopover before continuing on to Guam and then to China. The President's jet touched down at 8:30 p.m. EST at Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station after a ten-hour flight from Washington.

As he embarked for the first face-to-face summit meeting ever between U.S. and Chinese Communist leaders, he tempered his words of hope with words of caution.

"We are under no illusion that 20 years of hostility will be swept away by one week of talks," Nixon told some 8,000 persons attending farewell ceremonies at the White House. Then he and Mrs. Nixon winged westward to Hawaii on the first leg of his 20,395-mile, 13-day journey.

"We will have great differences in the future," he said. "What we must do is find a way to see that we can have our differences without being enemies at war."

From the White House, where school children, Cabinet officers, congressional leaders, government employees and tourists bade him farewell from the winter-faded South Lawn, Nixon flew by helicopter to nearby Andrews Force Base, Md.

There he boarded his blue, silver and white presidential jet, "The Spirit of '76," for the 10-hour nonstop flight to Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station on the northern shore of Oahu.

His departure, which came as light snow fell from slate-gray skies, was televised live nationwide—a prelude to the extensive live television coverage planned for his eight days in China.

After a 45-hour stay in Hawaii, recommended by his physician to readjust to time zone changes, the President flies to Guam on Saturday for an overnight stop.

With his wife and an official party of 13 White House and State Department advisers, Nixon will arrive in Peking on Monday—Sunday night U.S. time—and become the first American president ever to set foot on Chinese soil.

Before returning to the United States Feb. 28, he will have an open-ended series of talks with Chinese leaders Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, attend a round of four banquets in three cities and visit the Great Wall and other Chinese shrines and historic sites.

Nixon met for 45 minutes Thursday with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, giving them what House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan described as "a realistic appraisal of the possible results." He promised to brief them upon his return.

Then, without a topcoat to ward off the winter chill, the President stepped onto the South Lawn to deliver his brief farewell remarks.

The President recalled his statement of July 15—when he announced that a secret summer mission to Peking by his foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger, had set up the unprecedented summit meeting.

"That statement was, as you will recall, that this would be a journey for peace," he said.

Nixon noted, too, a toast offered by Chou when Kissinger was in China.

"The American people are a great people," he quoted the Chinese Premier as saying. "The Chinese people are a great people. The fact that they are separated by a vast ocean and great differences in philosophy should not prevent them from finding common ground."

Nixon said if his talks with Communist leaders bring progress toward finding that common ground "the world will be a much safer world."

And, motioning to the hundreds of school children on the lawn—many of them chattering excitedly as he talked—Nixon added that he hoped "all those young children there" would have a chance "to grow up in a world of peace."

Before turning to walk across a red carpet between a military honor guard to the helicopter, the chief executive said: "If there was a postscript I hope might be written in regard to this trip, it would be the words on the plaque left on the moon by our first astronauts when they landed there:

"We came in peace for all mankind."

Congressmen Buttonholed By Antibusing Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen were buttonholed and highways were jammed Thursday as thousands of Virginians took a colorful, orderly and smooth school busing protest to the federal government.

Henrico County, Va., police said 3,261 cars carrying an average of four Richmond-area residents each traveled the four-hour round trip through falling snow to Washington for a half-hour drive through the city.

Slogans saying "Save Our Freedom" picturing a traditional little red school house adorned the vehicles.

At the same time, approximately 120 residents of the city of Richmond and Henrico and Chesterfield Counties, Va., broke into groups of four and visited offices of over 300 members of the House of Representatives.

They sought support for congressional efforts to outlaw busing as a means of achieving racial balance in public schools.

They specifically protested the Jan. 10 decision of U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. consolidating the mostly black Richmond schools with the overwhelmingly white Henrico and Chesterfield County schools.

"The decision disregards completely the sovereign governmental life of the counties," said Bob Isner of Henrico County.

G. W. Herbaugh of Henrico County, a leader of the group, said the all-day effort found sympathetic ears among congressmen.

One of their immediate goals was to win new support for a discharge petition that would extract from the House Judiciary Committee a proposed constitutional amendment banning busing to achieve a racial balance.

Only two additional House members signed the petition Thursday, bringing the total to 145. It takes a simple majority of 218 for the petition to take effect.

The anti-busing lobbyists said they found overwhelming support for their position. But, they reported, many congressmen are balking at the discharge petition route.

Business Economists See More Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business economists predict that big federal deficits and easy money will thwart President Nixon's effort to reduce inflation to a 2 to 3 per cent rate this year.

A consensus report from 20 economists representing major industries was delivered Thursday to nearly 100 top industrialists at a closed meeting of the Business Council with Phase 2 officials.

A summary of the panel's forecast, released to newsmen, said a majority of the economists "voice strong concern about the continued stimulation of the economy resulting from monetary and fiscal policy and the effect this may have in the form of more rapid inflation this year and in 1973."

The industry experts foresaw "a strong economy through 1972 and into 1973" but anticipated a growth of inflation across the economy averaging 3 to 4 per cent.

That matched the 3.5 per cent inflation forecast issued Wednesday by economists of the National Planning Association, except that NPA said inflation could not be held even to that rate unless "the administration succeeds in making the Phase 2 price and wage controls more effective."

The NPA report went on: "This will require marked improvements in the performance of the Price Commission, whose actions to date have certainly not been consistent with its announced target of 2.5 per cent of even the 3.5 per cent inflation rate projected here."

The NPA is a privately supported research organization with members from industry, labor and education.

Price Commission chairman C. Jackson Grayson and Pay Board chairman George H. Boldt addressed the Business Council session at which the report of the panel of economists was presented.

A Pay Board spokesman said

Boldt told the industry group he remains highly optimistic that the controls will bring the inflation rate down to the target range.

Boldt said the economy needs "a substantial and continuing increase in productivity," according to the spokesman, and predicted that this alone would "go a long way toward stemming inflation and speeding the day when controls are not needed."

When the 2 to 3 per cent goal for inflation was fixed at the start of Phase 2 in mid-November, officials said the price and wage regulations would be tightened if it became clear that they were not stringent enough to meet the target.

The Business Council's outlook summary foresaw a rise in national output of between 8.5 per cent and 10 per cent this year, but noted this would mean only 5 to 6 per cent in real growth after discounting for inflation.

U.S., Soviets Agree To Talk About Debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Thursday "agreement in principle" has been reached with the Soviets for reopening the long-dormant negotiations on Russia's debt for massive World War II lend-lease shipments.

When talks broke off 12 years ago, the two sides were $500 million apart, with the Russians offering to pay $300 million.

The lend-lease dispute has been a major obstacle for years in the way of improving economic relations between Washington and Moscow.

A State Department spokesman, in making the announcement, said a specific time has not yet been set for the renewed talks nor have other details been ironed out.

Earlier, Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., said the department had told him of the Soviet willingness to reopen negotiations.

Moorhead said the "good news comes after more than a year's effort" by his House foreign operation and government subcommittee "to bring about the collection of delinquent international debt owed to the United States by many nations, including the Soviet Union."

U.S. Warplanes End Heavy Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes ended two days of heavy raids Thursday against Soviet-supplied, long-range artillery and anti-aircraft air defenses inside North Vietnam.

The U.S. Command reported planes—which flew about 150 strikes—met intense anti-aircraft fire and more than a dozen surface-to-air missiles—SAMS.

"The area where we struck just north of the DMZ is heavily defended," a command spokesman said. "A lot of effort was expended in anti-aircraft suppression, keeping down the SAMS and the anti-aircraft fire so that other planes could look for the long-range artillery guns."

One Air Force F4 Phantom

was shot down, and its two-man crew is missing, the command said. Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese forces shot down seven U.S. planes, capturing and killing a number of pilots. The U.S. Command refused to comment on the report.

Command policy is not to reveal aircraft losses until search and rescue operations for any downed pilots are completed, on the grounds that such a disclosure could endanger the search.

The command said 10 "protective reaction" strikes were flown against anti-aircraft and missile sites in an area just north of the eastern part of the DMZ.

Report Hughes Has Abandoned Retreat

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Howard Hughes has abandoned his seclusion in the Bahamas for a visit to Nicaragua and possibly a later trip to the United States. Sources here and in Las Vegas, Nev., said the 66-year-old recluse arrived Thursday in this Central American capital.

The office of President Anastasio Somoza, himself a multimillionaire, announced that Hughes had accepted his invitation to visit Nicaragua.

Informal sources said Hughes' visit to Managua was arranged Wednesday night by the U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua, Turner Shelton, who reportedly has a home in the Bahamas and is a friend of the U.S. billionaire.

An Eastern Air Lines Jetstar, which was believed to have brought Hughes to this Central American republic, landed at the Nicaraguan air force strip near the municipal airport at 9:15 a.m.

There was speculation that Hughes was staying either at Shelton's residence or Somoza's ranch outside the city.

Sources in Washington said Hughes had arrived at Miami, Fla., at 4:30 a.m. EST, Thursday on board his yacht from the Bahamas.

Other U.S. sources said Hughes' visit to Nicaragua would be brief. They added he might return then to the United States for a meeting with the president.

New Impetus For Amtrak

Given Amtrak's birth pangs and subsequent ailments, there seems no other course than for Congress to provide the additional millions required to keep it going. The alternative might well be the end, before it has gotten fully under way, of this experimental approach to improving railroad passenger service.

This seems to be the thinking of a House Commerce subcommittee which, having wrestled at length with the problem, has approved the request of Amtrak—the National Railroad Passenger Corporation—for another 170 million dollars. The subcommittee did not simply propose handing over this sum, however. It made a number of specific recommendations evidently intended to assure that the money will be well spent.

The prime requirement suggested by the subcommittee is that 147.5 million of the total be earmarked for capital improvements. This is of great importance if the public is to be attracted to the railroads as a desirable means of travel.

The subcommittee also accepted a number of other amendments designed to give Amtrak a better chance of survival, and at the same time to provide for closer review of its operations. Under these provisions Amtrak could apply for more direct routes, and could acquire equipment for handling package and rail express freight. It is proposed, too, that more troops be moved by rail whenever feasible, and that passenger trains be given right-of-way preference over freights.

The additional grant is necessary. The suggested operational changes sound sensible. The subcommittee appears to have hit upon a formula promising new impetus for Amtrak and, in a larger sense, for the enterprise of restoring rail passenger service to good health.

Well, Sir, It Depends

Shakespeare once asked, "What's in a name?" Nowadays the answer might be, "It depends on the time." The point is well illustrated by the progression of one of America's most famous names, Rockefeller.

Consider the situation around the beginning of the century when John D. Rockefeller and his associates were building up Standard Oil, largely by ruthless suppression of smaller competitors. At that time the name of Rockefeller would as often as not be greeted with hisses. When in 1908 John D. Rockefeller announced that he would vote for Secretary of War William H. Taft for president, Republican boosters did everything possible to keep the news dark.

Now a direct descendant, Nelson D. Rockefeller, is serving his fourth term as governor of New York. Moreover, he was a leading contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1968, and at no time was his name used against him. Nelson's brother Winthrop served simultaneously as governor of Arkansas.

Still another Rockefeller, John D., IV, also is making political news. Now secretary of state in West Virginia, he is an announced candidate for governor. An added fillip is the fact that he has shrugged off family tradition to the extent of affiliating with the Democratic party.

What's in a name? Why, Sir, it depends on when the question's asked.

DeGaulle's Statesmanship

Charles de Gaulle's achievements are brought to mind again by the first English publication of his memoirs. His account of events in which he played such an important part tends to strongly confirm the impression that this remarkable French patriot was one of a handful of outstanding 20th century statesmen.

De Gaulle's first involvement in affairs on a national scale came when Marshals Petain and Weygand refused to fight any further after the capture of Paris in World War II. De Gaulle, an unknown junior officer, uttered his famous war cry: "France has lost a battle. She has not lost the war!" He organized and led the Free French revolt.

Through it all he kept insisting, sometimes to the annoyance of Roosevelt and Churchill, that though beaten France deserved an equal place among the Allies. At the war's end he was the natural choice to head the new French government.

Another major achievement was his suppression of the army revolt when, as president, he decided it was useless to retain Algeria against its will. Though De Gaulle is less well known for this than for his rallying of his countrymen in the darkest days of the war, the Algerian action was of significance both for France and for the rest of the world. The course De Gaulle chose resembled Winston Churchill's post-war reduction of British commitments in Asia. Both actions were prime examples of a statesman-like facing of realities and refusal to cling to stereotypes of national prestige and glory.

Reach Summit By Vastly Different Routes

Own Interests Motivate Nixon, Chinese Leaders

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—When President Nixon and Chinese leaders meet next week, they will have reached the summit by vastly different routes, each side motivated by its own particular interests. The vision of the "promised land" Nixon hopes to see undoubtedly differs considerably from the vision of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai. However, the fact that Peking and Washington have finally agreed to try to liquidate their bitter 20-year-old cold war is more important to a war-weary and apprehensive world than the geopolitical considerations which led them to this point. Nixon views his success in arranging the meeting as a triumph for his policy—put into effect almost the day he took office—to make a beginning in burying the hatchet with Peking and opening up the possibility of stabilizing Asia. The President's strategy was well executed, part of it being carried out through secret emissaries and part of it advanced by public announcements and actions.

Chou En-lai, for his part, has made it clear that he considers fact that Nixon took the initiative and asked to be invited to Peking as evidence of the wisdom and effectiveness of the policies China has been pursuing since Chiang Kai-shek's nationalists were driven off the mainland in 1949.

Nixon is well aware that it was not any particular affection for Americans that led Chou and Mao to agree to the meeting. Chou has made it clear his willingness to entertain the idea of "normalizing" relations with the United States stems in large part from Peking's fear of the Russians. Chou also has spoken of his concern over the possibility of resurgent Japanese militarism.

Chou is equally aware that Nixon, one of the most militant of the anti-Peking crusaders during the Eisenhower administration, has not altered his view on communism, although Nixon may have become less convinced that Peking has "aggressive" intentions toward all Asia.

However, Chou knows Nixon's desire for friendship with China is based in large part on a feeling that Sino-American understanding may provide diplomatic framework and political atmosphere to eventually settle not only the Vietnam War but eliminate some of the other peril points in Asia.

Muskie Swamps

McGovern In Poll

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Gallup organization has preliminary results from a rare head-to-head poll showing Sen. Edmund Muskie an overwhelming choice over Sen. George McGovern for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Since the actual figures may still be formally published by Gallup, I am not privileged to disclose them. They reflect recent queries put just to Democratic voters, and they are indeed crushing.

Interestingly, too, the regional breakdown shows McGovern doing roughly 10 points better in the Middle West than he does nationally.

These findings take on significance in the light of argument being advanced by McGovern—and some independent observers—that his recent showing in Iowa's Democratic precinct caucuses was "seven times" better than his national poll status.

The argument is grossly misleading. It is based upon two things which John Davison of the Gallup organization says can't fairly be compared — a Gallup poll measuring McGovern in a field of 10 Democratic contenders and giving him just three per cent; and incomplete returns from 2,600 delegate-choosing precinct caucuses in Iowa, giving McGovern 23 per cent against Muskie's 35.6 and an uncommitted 35.1 per cent (Muskie's share should rise further when all precincts are in.)

In the first place, the Gallup test in question was national and affords no hint of McGovern's obviously greater strength in the Middle West. Secondly, the poll set him against nine others.

For all practical purposes, the event in Iowa was in the nature of a head-to-head test between Muskie and McGovern. Technically, any Democrat could draw support, and there was a tiny scattering for Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, for former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, and for black U.S. Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York. But only Muskie and McGovern had any sort of working organization, and the contest was properly viewed at all stages as a direct collision.

McGovern's 23 per cent in the Iowa caucuses was not far distant from the Middle West percentage Gallup would give him in its one-on-one measurement with Muskie.

Muskie's Iowa showing is below what Gallup would give him for the Middle West. But a lot of the presently uncommitted strength in the state is believed by politicians and analysts to be Muskie's. It is expected to surface at later stages.

Though the Iowa uncommitted figure of 35.1 per cent was higher than the Muskie forces and most others anticipated, he nevertheless was the clear winner among Democrats who declared themselves.

It is just plain silly for McGovern to assert that "we have fought Muskie to a standstill, even though he is supposed to be the front-runner." How do you make 35 to 23 into a stalemate? Actually, not even his 23 per cent is secure, since the delegates he won in the caucuses are not legally bound and could switch.

Turned On By TV Repairman

Dear Ann Landers: Am I nuts? If you think so, come right out and tell me. Don't try to spare my feelings.

About five weeks ago the TV broke down. I called the repairman. He came that same day—a handsome young fellow about ten years younger than myself. I visited with him while he worked on the set. It took about 20 minutes. Then I offered him a cold beer. We sat at the kitchen table and talked. I must say I enjoyed his company. His visit cost $16.

Well, two weeks later I got to thinking about that fellow again so I pulled out a few wires, twisted a couple of tubes and put the TV out of commission. He came over that same afternoon and we had another nice visit. The repair bill was $11.

I did the same thing yesterday, Ann. But this time they sent another man. He wasn't my type. I felt like a fool. I was also mad. He charged me $13 and there wasn't a darned thing wrong with the set. Now when I think of what I've done, I wonder if I'm cuckoo. What do you think?—Brunhild

Dear Brun: I think you've got a bat or two in the belfry, dearie. You must also be pretty rich to afford such high-priced company. What you really need is something to occupy your time. Get a hobby.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 25 and a few months ago I married for the second time. My husband is 13 years older than I am, a wonderful person, and I want this marriage to work so much I can hardly stand it. But I have a problem. It's me and my big mouth.

I pop off, criticize, get mean and vindictive and then I hate myself five minutes later. It seems like whatever comes into my head goes out of my mouth. I am so afraid I'll ruin this marriage that I'm a nervous wreck. What is wrong with people who can't control what they say? Just tonight we had an argument about some small thing and I shot off my face again. His only comment was, "I am disgusted with you." Please, Ann, I need your help.—Loud Mouthed and Miserable

Dear L.M. and M.: A woman who is 25 and already in trouble with her second marriage needs more help than I can give her in one letter. Get some professional counseling and find out why you are a compulsive verbal harpoonist and what to do about it. The first step toward a cure is to discover the cause.

Dear Ann Landers: When I tell you my story, you'll understand why I have to write to Ann Landers. Please say something to put my mind at ease. I'm miserable.

Five months ago I shoplifted a $60 dress that was on sale for $40. I can't believe I did it. I must have been out of my mind to take such a chance with my reputation. No, I didn't get caught, but I haven't had a good night's sleep since. I hate myself for being so weak and sneaky. I want to make amends, but I'm afraid if I go back to the store and confess I might get into trouble. I wore the dress twice and then hated it so I gave it to a friend who admired it on me.

Please tell me what to do. I have paid for that darned dress 100 times over in suffering. I need your help.—Old Enough to Know Better

Dear Old Enough: Go to a bank and ask that a cashier's check be made out in the amount of $45. Request that your name not appear on the check. Send it to the store and attach a note saying, "This is to pay for the merchandise I took several months ago, plus interest. I'm sorry I did it and have learned my lesson. Thank you."

You'll feel better the moment the check goes in the mailbox.

Law For Today

Q. The company I work for wants to have a closed shop. Is this legal? Can I be forced to join a union in order to keep my job?

A. Yes. An employer and a union which has won the right to represent employees in a fair election may agree to a "closed shop" contract, that is, one that requires all employees in specified categories to be or to become members of the union. Illinois is not one of those states which have adopted so-called "right to work" laws which prohibit employees from being required to join a labor union as a condition of continued employment.

U.N. Agency Fighting Occupational Cancer

By IVAN ZVERINA
UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Occupational cancer has been claiming an increasing number of victims, not only in industry but also in agriculture. One of the U.S. specialized agencies, the International Labor Organization (ILO) is launching a new campaign to protect workers from the danger.

A conference of 11 ILO experts from 8 countries met in Geneva last month to make recommendations on the subject at the International Labor Conference next year.

The object is to adopt international standards for workers exposed to chemicals, either in industry or agriculture, which can cause occupational cancer.

Figures released by ILO showed that in Britain, in the years 1961-68, some 1,200 workers developed cancer of the skin, considered to be of an occupational character.

29 Britons Die

In the year 1968 alone, 29 British workers died of such causes.

An Italian survey carried out among 213 workers handling benzidine—a chemical essential for the production of cotton dyes—showed 22 of the men suffering from cancer of the bladder.

In the United States, investigation into 123 deaths among workers dealing with chromates—needed in painting and coloring—showed 21 per cent were suffering from lung cancer. This survey also showed that the workers handling chromates had an incidence of cancer 40 times higher than other workers of the same age group.

In Czechoslovakia there was the recently recorded case of two boys whose job was unloading sacks of an insecticide, benzene hexachloride. Eight months later one of them died of acute leukemia, the other died three months later.

Over-all statistics on occupational cancer do not exist. One reason is the latent character of the disease—it takes a long time before it manifests itself.

The ILO characterizes occupational cancer as "malignant tumors caused by prolonged exposure to chemical or physical agents, which are called carcinogens."

The carcinogens in question are tar, soot, anthracene, paraffin, mineral oils, asbestos, arsenical pesticides—such as those used by wine growers—chrome, chromates, nickel, ionizing radiations, gamma rays and radioactive substances in general.

They can affect just about every part of the body from the skull, to lungs, bones and bladder and skin.

One of the first occupational cancer cases was among workers painting luminous watch dials, according to the ILO report.

A Fatal Swallow

The first known radiation victim, the report says, was an unidentified wealthy American who drank radioactive water as a health cure and died some years later of cancer of the liver.

After nuclear energy became an industry, the ILO in 1955 started its first efforts to provide for safety of workers engaged in it.

In 1960 a convention was adopted to protect workers against ionizing radiations. These internationally adopted standards now form part of the ILO "Manual of Industrial Radiation Protection."

What the new ILO action is aiming at is to widen the scope of this manual to cover benzene, used in plastics, pesticides, medicines and a wide range of detergents, and which very often cause leukemia.

Another aim is to make mandatory the wearing of protective clothing, more frequent medical examinations, more general compensation legislation and substitution of other chemicals for those that cause occupational cancer.

FOUL PLAY

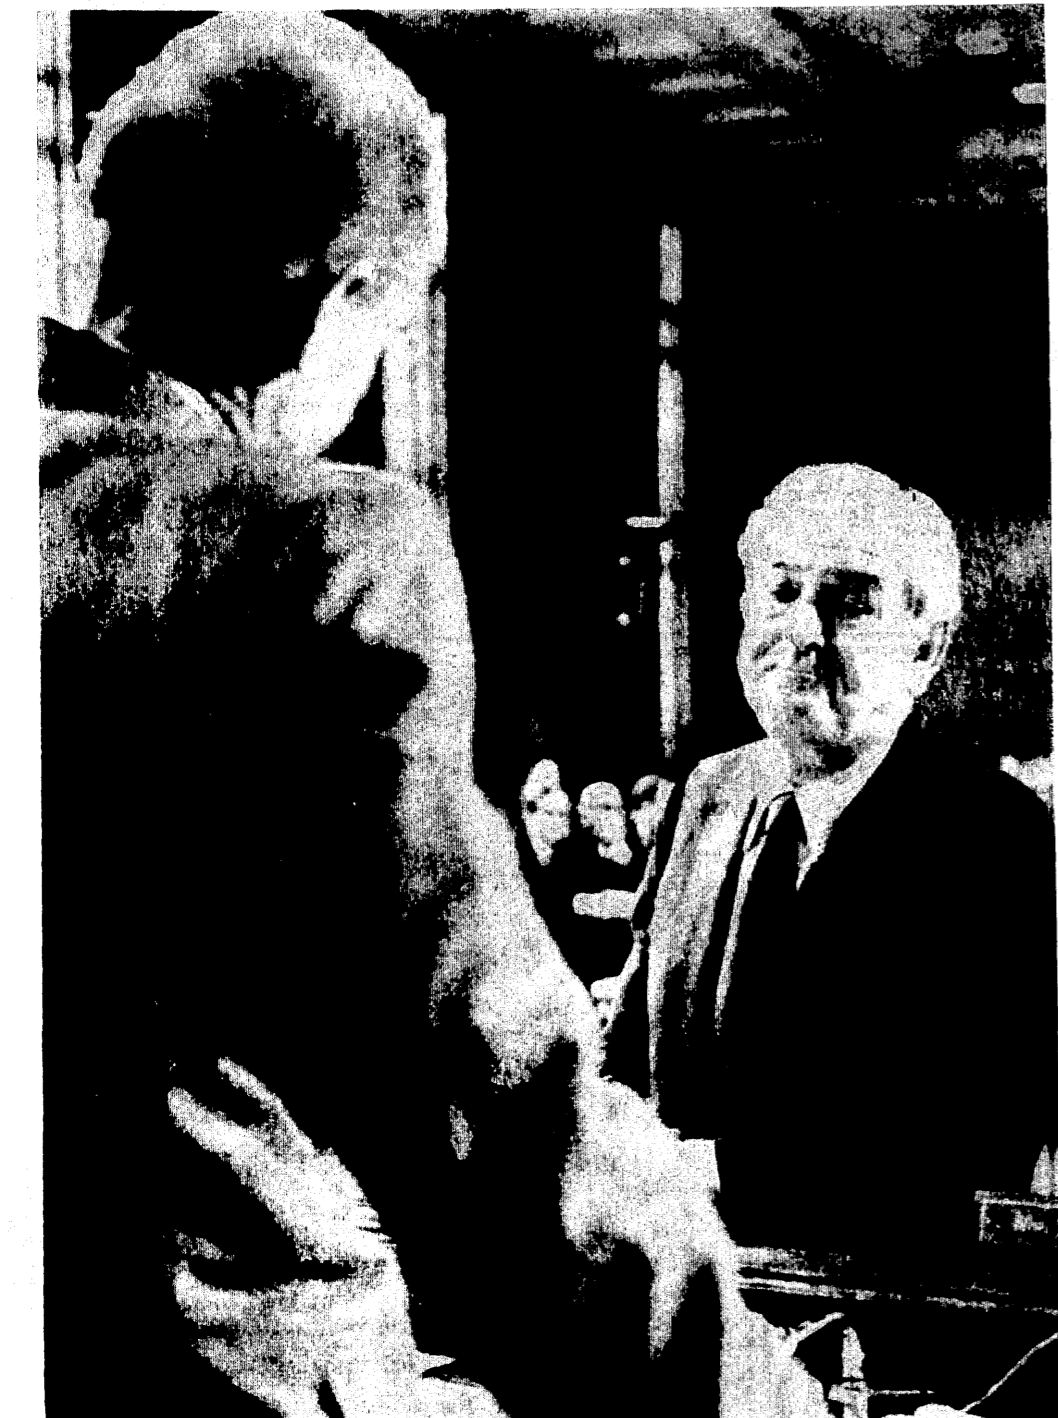

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Farmer Ah Kow did not know why 100 of his chickens and ducks disappeared in a week. He feared for the 32 fowls left, so he consulted friends.

The following day he tied a chicken to a big stone and set a trap nearby. Now he doesn't know what to do with the eight-foot-long culprit—a monitor lizard.

WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Wednesday repudiated a confidential study by his own department which dismissed as unfeasible the administration's goal of reducing unemployment to 4 per cent without reigniting inflation. Caught by surprise when Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis) made the document public at a hearing of the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee, Connally said the Treasury study was "a working paper" which did not represent the administration thinking. Marshall Trip To China Not Encouraging Nixon

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Beaming, Mao Tse-tung raised his glass in a toast to Gen. George C. Marshall, personal representative of the president of the United States, as a champion of peace and a friend of China.

That was 25 years ago, and until the contacts were made to prepare for President Nixon's visit, it was the last time a high-level U.S. mission was in mainland China.

Marshall evidently thought he was within reaching distance of bringing peace to a battered and suffering land, but he was soon to be thoroughly disillusioned.

If there is less than exuberant optimism in the United States now about quick results from Nixon's visit next week, it is hardly surprising in the light of what happened to that Marshall mission.

At the time the United States ostensibly was shying away from entanglement in the complicated internal affairs of China and Asia. Today the United States is still trying to extricate itself from an Asian entanglement. It seems reasonable to speculate that the Chinese and Americans this time will find one another just as mutually inscrutable as they did when the Americans in their last major effort on the mainland confronted the complexities of a deadly rivalry between Mao's communism and Chiang Kai-shek's authoritarianism.

By 1945, the tide of World War II was running in favor of the allies and against the Axis both in Europe and Asia, but many American lives remained at stake in the Pacific. As China's military ally, the United States wanted the Chinese to concentrate on fighting the Japanese instead of each other.

Chiang's Kuomintang and Mao's Communist organization regarded each other as the ultimate enemy to be faced in a struggle for supremacy once Japanese defeat came. Each side tended to hoard its resources against that day.

Anxious for any solution that might promise to shorten the war in the Pacific, President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent the Oklahoman Patrick J. Hurley to China as ambassador, to seek a united front of Communists and Nationalists. Hurley flew to the Communists' Yenan headquarters and there persuaded Mao to send Chou En-lai to Chungking, the Kuomintang's wartime capital, to talk with Chiang and the Nationalists.

Hurley began his mission with optimism and enthusiasm. He wound up resigning in November 1945 in a fury of anger at both sides. The war with Japan by then had been over for three months, brought to an abrupt end by the U.S. atom bomb. Now there was less pressure on the contending Chinese for the united front neither side wanted.

As Roosevelt's successor, Harry S. Truman faced something that looked like a crisis. If the American objective was postwar Asian stability, the prospect of civil war in China had to be an unhappy one. Truman called Gen. Marshall, the wartime chief of staff, out of retirement for what would be the last big try.

As special presidential representative with ambassador's rank, Marshall was to offer American good offices for an end to the hostilities between the Communists and Kuomintang so that a "strong, democratic and united China" might be constructed.

While the United States officially disavowed any intention of interfering, it pressed both sides to form a coalition that could be supported by U.S. aid. Marshall told both there could be no aid to a nation engulfed in civil war.

Marshall arrived in December 1945, tired from his war service and probably ailing. At the time, 50,000 U.S. Marines still were in North China helping Chiang's forces evacuate Japanese troops and hold Nationalist positions.

In his quiet, unassuming way, Marshall listened to both sides. Conscious of the U.S. disavowal of intent to interfere, he could do little more at the outset than advise on how to avert fullscale civil war.

The Americans wanted to see a political consultative conference convened on reorganization of a postwar government, but Marshall insisted on a cease-fire first. He achieved that, effective Jan. 13, 1946.

Chiang then called the consultative conference. It sat 20 days with Chou as the Communist representative. The result was agreement on a national assembly to meet five months later on such matters as a constitution and national reconstruction. Disposition of the opposing armed forces would be overseen by a three-man committee made up of Marshall, one Communist and one Kuomintang representative. Chou pledged the Communists to 100 per cent acceptance of whatever result was achieved.

On the surface, prospects seemed good. A hopeful Marshall in February flew to Yenan. Chairman Mao hailed Marshall's "selfless dedication to the firm establishment of a peaceful, democratic, unified China." Marshall was moved by the tribute and the toast.

The Americans could be excused for reflecting optimism. It did seem that civil war had been averted. But the reality was that neither Kuomintang nor Communists had any use for a coalition, nor any intention of giving up its own political aims.

Marshall told the Communists that the United States—like the Soviet Union—was bound by the Yalta agreement to recognize Chiang's regime as the legitimate government and support its right to occupy Manchuria.

But the Russians, who had declared war on Japan only as it was about to surrender to the Americans, were busy looting Manchuria's industry and disarming Japanese troops. That equipment was finding its way into Communist hands. Communists infiltrated Manchuria heavily, disguised as refugees.

Chiang tried to move Nationalist forces, U.S.-equipped, into Manchuria, but the Russians denied him use of the railway. The Communists, who had been preparing carefully, now were able to attack and envelop Changchun, an enormously important industrial and rail hub. Chiang poured in new troops and the Communists accused him of violating their agreements. The Communists, however, were doing their own share of violating, and the Russians, clearly in defiance of the Soviet-Chinese treaty of 1945, were turning over mountains of equipment to them.

Desperately Marshall tried to get talks started again, but the Manchurian events had dealt peace hopes a mortal blow.

Still trying, Marshall brought about a 15-day truce in Manchuria, effective June 7, and then had it extended to June 20. He summoned Chiang and Chou to a "Committee of Three" session, but by this time the Communists, in a much stronger position than before, were raising their terms. There was complete lack of trust of both sides.

President Truman deplored the "selfish interests of extreme elements" on both sides. He warned Chiang that the United States might have to review its China policy, particularly in view of Chiang's suppression of the view of intellectuals in Nationalist held areas and the lack of press freedom.

Some outstanding liberal figures had been assassinated, and Truman referred sharply to that, too. Chiang replied there had been mistakes by "some subordinates" but that these could not be compared with Communist violations, especially in Manchuria and North China.

Chou En-lai countered that from the time of the January cease-fire, the government's forces had undertaken offensive troop movements repeatedly against "liberated areas" and had seized 76 cities by Sept. 7.

Marshall threw up his hands and pronounced a plague on both houses. In January 1947, his year of labor down the drain, Marshall came home.

That puzzled Joseph Stalin. The Soviet dictator could not believe that the United States would obligingly surrender its position for influencing the Asian continent's future. Stalin suspected a trick, and this inhibited him from any quick move to cash in on the opportunity. But in the United States there had been a public fever to "bring the boys home," and despite Marshall's warning that it would be dangerous for Asia, the Americans hurriedly withdrew their troops.

Now the U.S. military presence no longer was in the Communists' way. They had only Chiang's disorganized Kuomintang to deal with. The Communists developed strength as the nationalists weakened.

Massive U.S. arms help failed to save Chiang. By October 1949 Mao was master of the mainland. Chiang and his remnants were on Taiwan.

Today Mao's China is entrenched as the government of 800 million or so. Chiang's China is entrenched also, with economic power and influence far out of proportion to Taiwan's 14 million population.

Marshall's was the last high-level U.S. mission to mainland China for 25 years, until Henry Kissinger made his secret trip last summer. There had been practically no official Washington-Peking contact except at Geneva and Warsaw at the ambassadorial level. Meantime there were the Korean conflict involving a military clash between Americans and Red Chinese, and then the Vietnam entanglement.

Today the Americans are still trying to find their way out.

Women's Lib Enters Grand Jury Session

A new grand jury was sworn in at 11 a.m. Thursday for the first period of service in 1972. And it may have been an historic moment.

Circuit Judge John B. Wright selected a woman to preside over the 23-member grand jury, the first time in modern history at the courthouse.

Judge Wright selected Mrs. Dorothy Baker of Murrayville to serve as forelady, forewoman, foreman or whatever the correct title might be. Judge Wright announced his decision by calling Mrs. Baker the forelady. Mrs. Baker is no stranger to deliberative bodies since she served several years as a member of the board of education of School District 117.

Judge Wright explained to the new grand jury that their services would be required for brief periods possibly every two or three months during the year.

A true bill was returned following the session against Harold R. (BeBe) Hayes, 47, of 843 Sheridan Street, on a charge of aggravated assault.

State's Attorney Edwin Parkinson, who was celebrating his birthday Thursday, presented the evidence before the grand jury and called Edward Leach, a city policeman, to testify concerning the evidence.

Hayes is currently free on $2,000 bond. He will be called for a formal arraignment within a few days. He was charged with the offense Dec. 8, 1971.

Other members of the grand jury are: Richard Arnold, Glen H. Alhorn, H. S. Bubb, Dorothy Bourn, Charles H. Cobb, Florence DeGroot, Arthur A. Roulund, Louise Sullivan, William P. Daub, Charles Roach, Mary F. Roach, Otis Axt, Henry D. Bridgeman, Marjorie A. Breckon, John J. Clegg, Claribel Cully, Donald H. Craig, Delos N. Craig, Edna DeSollar, Homer J. Roegge, Arthur E. Johnson and Clair Wilson.

DAMES DENIED DRINK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Women's lib obviously didn't exist during Montezuma's day. The Chocolate Manufacturers Association reports that, while chocolate was the royal drink of the Aztecs, it was forbidden to the women of the court.

Beardstown Man Pleads Guilty To Drug Charge

BEARDSTOWN — A Beardstown man charged with selling marijuana here changed his pleas from not guilty to guilty and waived jury trial.

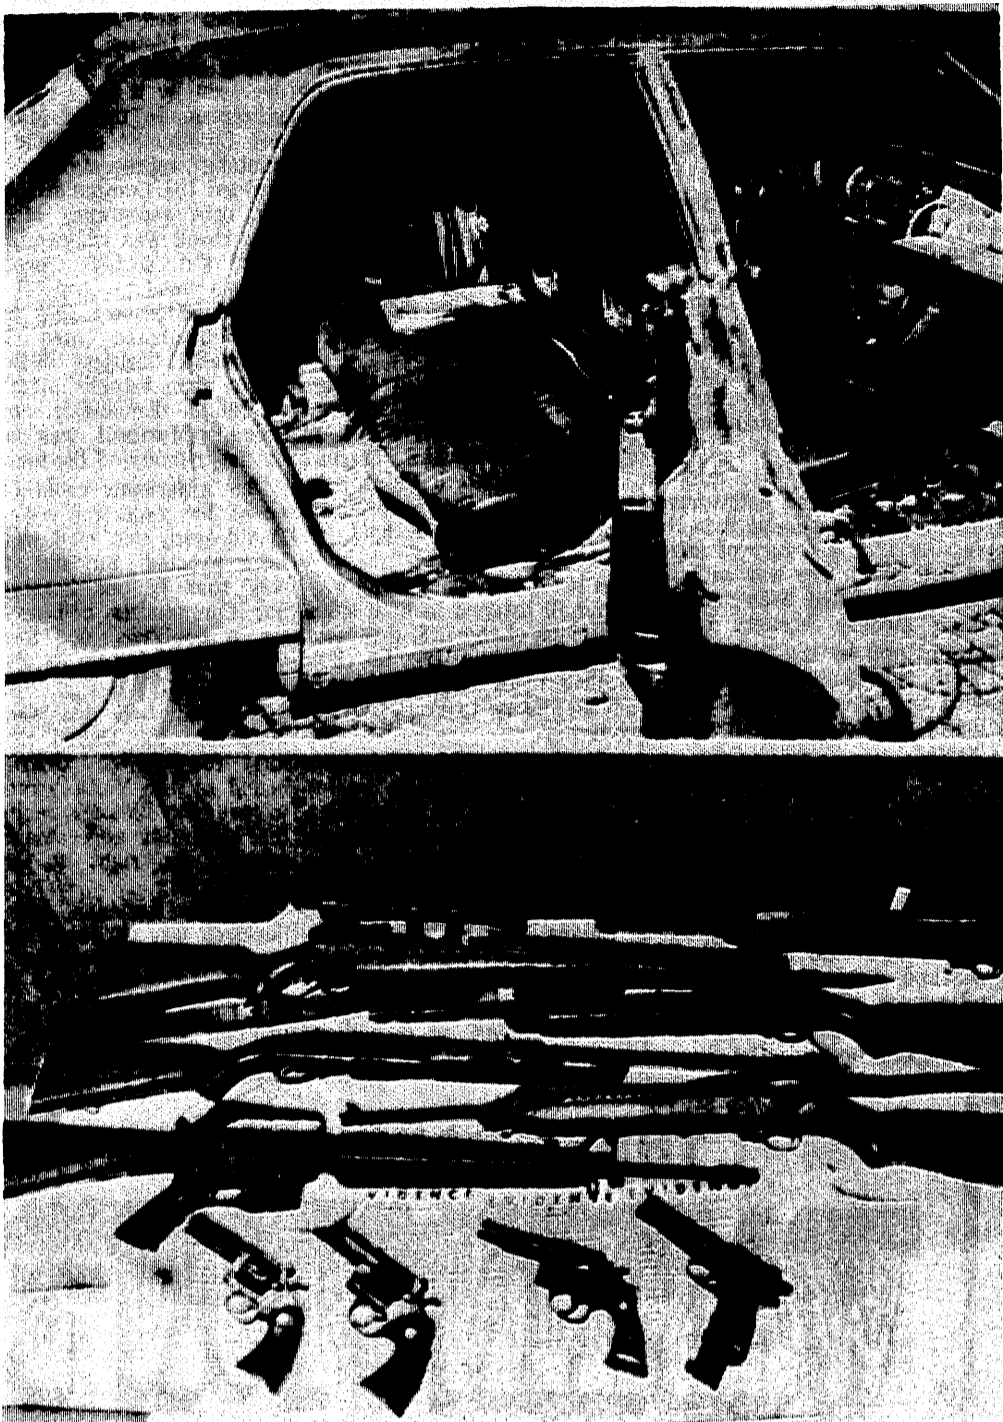

Kenneth Malcomson, alleged to have sold the drug to a narcotics agent in Schmoldt park here, asked for probation. Circuit Court Judge Fred W. Reither set the hearing for March 8.

State's Attorney Walter Farand petitioned for continuance which was granted Ray Lee Newbern charged with taking indecent liberties.

Bond was set at $3000 on a rape charge and $5000 on an indecent liberties with a child charge against Roy Michael Buck. L. Milton McClure is representing Buck.

A dram shop suit involving four local taverns was settled out of court in Virginia. The action stemmed from the recent death of Willis Blake, local cafe operator. A jury had been picked before the agreement was reached between William Blake, administrator, and the tavern owners.

Pleas of guilty to charges of reckless driving were entered by David Valenti and Timothy Hollis. Valenti was fined $150 and court costs and Hollis fined $200.

FOUR MEN INVOLVED in a gun battle with St. Louis police, Tuesday, are suspected of being involved in the killing of two New York City policemen last month. One of the men escaped, two were wounded, and one killed when police stopped their car (Top). One St. Louis policeman was seriously injured in the shooting. Police found weapons (Bottom) in the car, and one of the revolvers (bottom center) was traced as belonging to one of the slain New York policemen. UPI Photo

ROODHOUSE — An evening program was presented by Mrs. A. Ross Manning and Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson at the Feb. 15 meeting of the Chapter BU of the PEO Sisterhood held at the home of Mrs. Wilkinson. The women sang favorite songs of all members, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Ronald Martin. A short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Russell Chapman.

Refreshments were served to the twenty-three members by the hostess. The March 7 meeting of the chapter will be held at the home of Mrs. Clement Coats.

Mrs. Harvey Hodge, city librarian, accompanied by three board members, Mrs. W. J. Rees, Jr., Mrs. George Wollermann, Mrs. James H. Orr, and the White Hall city librarian, Mrs. C. L. Knight, drove to Edwardsville Tuesday, where they attended the Library Advisory Board meeting at the Lewis and Clark Library.

The local women brought back to Roodhouse fifty books which they chose during that time.

They enjoyed a luncheon at the Flaming Pit in Edwardsville.

A former Roodhouse resident, James P. Orr, employed by the government in Silver Springs, Maryland, observed his birthday Monday, Feb. 14. He was telephoned by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Orr of Roodhouse.

Relatives visiting in the home of Mrs. Richard Hopkins, Monday, were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Prime, Mrs. Mabel Springman, Jerseyville, and Mrs. Arthur Brannan, Carrollton.

Mrs. Ruth Morgan, who has been a patient at White Hall hospital, is staying a while in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Tate, Roodhouse. Also visitors in the same home Monday were the Tates' daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Don Scupham, Jacksonville.

Several relatives spent the evening, Feb. 9, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawson celebrating the birthday of Rhonda Renay Lawson, who was two years old that day. Refreshments were served to the following including the Lawson family: Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gilleland and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angelo and family, a great-grandmother, Mrs. Sylvia Whitaker and Frank Monroe, all of Roodhouse.

YOUNG GIRL GETS AN AFFIDAVIT from Ernest Davis Jr., chief courthouse bailiff, prior to registering to vote in office of Champaign County Clerk Dennis Bing. Bing has been directed by court to expedite registration of young, but University of Illinois students protested Wednesday that Bing was using delaying tactics. Two persons were arrested in protest. PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MEET AT WHITE HALL

WHITE HALL — The United Presbyterian women met at the church here Monday, February 14. Thirteen members were in attendance. Mrs. Ramsey Weiland was a guest. In keeping with Valentine's day, Mrs. Harvey Meckfessel opened the meeting using a devotional, Love Made the Difference. This was followed with group singing and prayer by Rev. Meckfessel.

Plans were made for several members to take part in the World Day of Prayer to be held at the First United Methodist church, Friday, March 3. The Mission Year Book for prayer and study was given by Mrs.

G. L. Rose. Christian workers to be remembered were from Korea, Japan, New York, North Dakota, Ohio. She concluded with The Call to Prayer.

A report on the Thrift Shop was given, and plans were made for the March meeting at which time bandages will be made at 11 a.m., followed by a sack lunch. The Fellowship of the Least Coin was given by Mrs. Ray Ricks.

A film strip, You Shall Be My Witnesses, was shown. It dealt with early church history. A Valentine poem was given by Mrs. Meckfessel, followed by the Mizpah benediction.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ernest Roodhouse. The table was centered with a Valentine basket, and gifts were distributed to all attending.

Y-Nots Sponsor Valentine Dance Next Saturday

The Jacksonville YMCA Junior High Fun Club, called the "Y-Nots?" will be hosting their first annual Valentine Dance this Saturday at the YMCA from 7:30 to 10:30. The band will be the Beaver Cleaver Express. The dance is open to any 7th, 8th, and 9th grader who are "Y-Nots?" members and their dates.

Admission is 75 cents for an individual, and $1.00 for a couple. Tickets are available at the YMCA, and are also being sold at the junior highs by club board members: Mark Bowman, Stan Cristoferson, Guy Friesen, Jody Hardesty, Nancy Lair, Glenn McKean, Patty Maurer, Kelly Noecker, Chuck Phalen, Jo Rice, Shelly Stevens, Anita Schroetter, and Jill Tanner.

Membership in the "Y-Nots?" entitles the student to participate in all the Tuesday evening dances, and also special programs such as overnights, Valentine dance, Sadie Hawkins dance, splash parties, and hayrides. The annual membership fee is $1.00 for YMCA members and $2.00 for non-YMCA members.

Advisor is Miss Diana Christiansen, a counselor at Armstrong Jr. High. Miss Christiansen came to Jacksonville from St. Louis. She graduated from Missouri University.

The next regular programs for the "Y-Nots?" will be Tuesday evening dances on Feb. 29th, March 14th, and March 28th.

A special gym and swim over-night will also be held in March, and the Sadie Hawkins dance on Saturday, April 8th.

Rules for the Club are few, but will be strongly enforced. Membership will be suspended for smoking, use of alcoholic beverages, or fighting on YMCA property. The "Y-Nots?" is governed by a youth board and supervised by an adult advisor.

The Phoenix Theater, a non-profit organization, has presented 132 productions since it was founded in 1953.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18

Born today, you are a person whose every action is dictated by the laws of self-preservation. You no doubt learned at a very young age the value of knowing which side your bread is buttered on and of acting according to that knowledge. This does not mean, however, that you will act out of self-interest rather than principle; it means merely that you know how to accommodate principles within the kinds of action that will take you where you want to go. The ability to accommodate principles, in fact, keeps you both honest and successful.

Not one who thrives under controversy, you prefer to keep the peace with family and friends. You enjoy rivalry and competition—but you very well can do without opposition. Your ability to fit your plans to another's — or to persuade another to fit his plans to yours — is such that there is little reason for you and your associates to be pulling in opposite directions.

One who keeps out of other people's quarrels, you have developed the habit of keeping your distance insofar as personal matters are concerned. Only your oldest and best friends and those who are members of your immediate family really know your feelings on issues that have a bearing on your personal life. For the most part, you put up an objective front that is impenetrable.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, February 19

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — You would be wise to consult other family members about your plans for the future. This is no time to try to go it alone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Let congeniality predominate on the family scene today. Children show a special interest in whatever may mean much to their future. Foster this.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Domestic concerns must be first on the agenda today. Don't leave the home scene unless or until you straighten out a few things.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — A day to cater to your self-interest. Be on time for appointments.

TRINITY WILL OBSERVE LENTEN BEGINNING

The seasons change and Trinity Episcopal church will mark the beginning of Lent with another in its series of Evening services at 5 p.m., February 20, the First Sunday in Lent. In keeping with the simplicity and penitential nature of the season, the chants for Psalms, the canticles, and for the Versicles and Responses are all the ancient, plain-song melodies of Gregorian chant. The choir will also sing a prayer motet, "O Jesus, King Most Wonderful" by Wetzel.

Then, the concert portion of the service will feature Michael Fisher of MacMurray College, who will perform on the new, Bosch organ. These services are intended for the general public and as an offering to God and people of all faiths and traditions.

ments—but don't loiter in the area of business when business is over with.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Make every effort to please those near and dear to you. The degree to which you satisfy another is the same degree to which you will gain happiness today.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — The cooperation you receive from children today will be much greater than you expected. Show your appreciation in a tangible way.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — The notion that you can make a profitable deal this morning bears serious investigation. Take care not to be persuaded by false argument.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Don't take offense at another's statement that he is aggravated by your actions. This may be a time of special stress for many besides yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Have an alternate plan ready in case of an emergency. The schedule you are adhering to at present time may not really be right for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't take no for an answer. State your case again and more forcefully. You can achieve your ends strictly through verbal argument—if you try.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — An excellent day for making up for recent losses. These are days when the help a friend can give you is precisely the help you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Listen carefully to another's arguments. You may have been missing something vital to the decision-making process. Self-interest is essential.

An expert doesn't need to bother with the code word ARCH. It is automatic for him to analyze the lead. Review the bidding. Count his winners and losers; and finally ask himself, "How can I make or defeat this contract?"

Of course, the last depends on whether or not he is declarer.

South wins the diamond lead and plays out his ace and king of trumps. The queen doesn't drop so he can't claim seven. As it is, he has to scramble for six.

How can he make the contract? Easy! All he has to do is play hearts and clubs and if West has to follow long enough, South is rid of his diamond losers.

If South stops his thinking there, he goes after clubs. West trumps the third club and South explains how unlucky he is.

If South takes the trouble to think the whole play out, he notes that he has no play for his contract unless West has at least three hearts. Then South starts on hearts, not clubs.

East shows out on the third heart so South can cash dummy's fourth heart. Then he works on clubs and gets rid of his last diamond loser on the third club.

Suppose hearts were 3-3. Then South would go after clubs and hope for the best while reserving the fourth heart play for the end.

School Bells May Ring Year-Round

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

School bells might be ringing 12 months of the year instead of the traditional nine if a movement to establish year-round schools finds support.

School districts in at least 25 states and a number of state legislatures are considering a variety of plans that would keep school doors open from January to December.

None requires students to attend class 12 months but several extend the school year for longer than the usual 180 days and provide shorter but more frequent vacations. Teachers also have several options.

The usual reason to consider a 12-month plan is economic: fuller utilization of facilities and savings on debt service, fuel, light, power and maintenance.

But economies are not the only reason. Some advocates maintain 12-month plans could result in quicker pupil movement through school and enable educators to improve the education of all children.

A 12-month plan is not a new idea. Before 1840, city schools were conducted nearly year around. Rural schools had shorter sessions to permit pupils to help with the farming. Later, cities shortened the school year, rural schools lengthened theirs and by 1915 most of the nation's schools were operating nine months with a three-month summer vacation.

The current resurgence of support for 12-month schools stems from economies and the feeling of many administrators that something must be done to restore public confidence in the public school system.

Public support, in terms of the success of school bond issues in the first six months of 1971, was not encouraging. The National Education Association said that 277 bond elections were successful but that 314 failed. More fearsome for school officials was the fact that $1.302 billion was turned down and only $605 million approved.

Glen Robinson, NEA director of research, noted in an interview that many schools remain locked during the summer, students face three months without much to do and teachers must find summer jobs.

"Many observers view this situation as a great waste, a waste of costly facilities and equipment, a waste of valuable professional skills and a waste of precious learning time," he said.

In a recent survey, the National School Public Relations Association said about 25 school districts are either operating full year-round schools or pilot programs.

The programs vary in structure and objectives but in each case are generally well received by parents, teachers and students. Most are voluntary.

Probably the most popular 12-month plan is the staggered quarter system where three-fourths of the student population is in school at the same time.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Excess Anxiety Explains Problem

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a very embarrassing problem. Every time I get ready to go out or do go out or just have close friends or relatives in for a visit, I am in the bathroom with diarrhea. This happens almost every time. I can't go shopping without having to go home and use the bathroom. I am only 27 years old and it is really wasting my young years.

My poor husband has to go places alone as I can't make it. I have been to the doctor and had complete physicals and X rays and he says I am in excellent health and that it is my nerves. O.K., I realize it is my nerves; but I don't want to sit home the rest of my life.

I have two small children and they like to go places, but we can't go anywhere. My neighbors think I don't like them because I never go to their house. I know where every bathroom in town is. I thought maybe I could go to a psychiatrist but really can't afford one and I don't know if it could help me and it is just an embarrassing problem. I am at my wits end, and it is making a wreck of me. Please try to help me.

Dear Reader—It probably is your nerves, as you have stated. The most likely explanation for this type of problem is an excess amount of anxiety. The bowels easily respond to anxiety and diarrhea is a typical response. You know the triggering mechanism is contact with other people, but why you should have this type of problem requires a little more searching to discover. Then there is the question of overcoming it. I really would recommend going to a psychiatrist for help if you can possibly do so. It might not take too long or too much effort to be able to work through your problem and to enable you to be less anxious about contacts with people.

There are a few things which add to the difficulty and you might make sure they are not a contributory factor. Many people cannot tolerate the lactose in milk and milk products. This is a straight chemical problem and the usual manifestation is diarrhea. Why don't you stop using milk and all forms of any dairy products or any foods made with any milk for a few weeks and see what happens to your diarrhea?

You'll know within a few weeks whether this is a problem or not, because you will be remarkably free of symptoms which sound like they have been all too frequent. If it isn't the answer, then you won't have lost anything either. Of course, you should avoid all the different foods that you know upset your digestive system and you should avoid coffee. I hope some of these measures will help, and I would strongly recommend trying them. I really think you should see a psychiatrist, however.

thinking about them. First, I am greatly annoyed by those drivers who completely ignore directional arrows in parking lots. They also look at you as if to say, "Where do you think you are going, Bub?" Second, there are the stores and doctor's offices that answer your call and then put you on "hold," and there you stay until you hang up in desperation, call again and say "Remember me?"—MRS. B.W.

There Is A Trick To Storing Celery

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Trudy who has trouble with celery molding in her fridge I find that when most fruits and vegetables are to be put in plastic bags they should first be wrapped in paper toweling to absorb any excess moisture. I do not cut celery apart but just cut off the extra length and any brown spots.—KAY

DEAR POLLY—Trudy should buy one of those marvelous new celery containers. They are the best ever for keeping celery crisp and fresh. I bought mine at the five-and-ten. After buying celery I immediately cut off the bottom ends so each stalk will be loose, trim the tops and store in this container which is filled ¾ full of water. Celery is ALWAYS crisp and ready to use on a moment's notice.—MRS. J.M.K.

DEAR POLLY—Trudy wrote that she cleans her celery with a vegetable brush before storing it so perhaps she is brushing the celery, and bruised vegetables spoil faster. She might also try getting a new vegetable brush and sterilize it ever so often as there may be decay-causing bacteria on her old brush. The mold on the end suggests to me that the vegetable keeper might need sterilizing or the temperature is too high or even both.—HELEN

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—The lady who irons for me ironed two pairs of expensive double-knit polyester pants belonging to my husband, and both now have shiny marks on them. One pair is navy blue and the other black so these marks really show, which is most distressing. I do hope someone can tell me how to remove such marks.—MRS. A.S.

DEAR POLLY—My two Pet Peeves just infuriate me even

Politicians From State Of Illinois Seem To Fade Like Old Soldiers

By JOHN RUTHERFORD
United Press International
Illinois politicians fade faster than old soldiers.

Ralph Tyler Smith was a U.S. senator in 1970. Today he is just another face in the crowd at Republican party gatherings.

Other politicians who, like Smith, were defeated for reelection have fared little better.

William Stratton and Ray Page finally landed jobs with Canteen Corp., a food and vending service. Samuel Shapiro is practicing law and Paul Douglas has been prevented from returning to Illinois for several years because of poor health.

Smith, 56, was twice elected speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives and reached the peak of his career when he was appointed to serve the unexpired Senate term of the late Everett M. Dirksen. From then on, however, it has been all downhill.

He was defeated for a term of his own by Adlai Stevenson III and had to ignominiously leave the Senate chamber by a side door when Stevenson appeared suddenly one day to claim his seat.

Shortly afterward, Smith suffered a coronary and quickly faded into oblivion. But he is hoping for a comeback.

"No one puts you out of politics," the Alton lawyer said. "You place yourself out and I do not intend to do that."

Smith said he is "90 per cent plus" recovered from his coronary and has recently talked with the White House about a "top level job" in Washington, D.C. He admitted, though, that "nothing has gelled yet."

Ray Page, 50, was another Republican who had trouble finding a job after he was booted out of office in the 1970 elections. Page served eight years as state superintendent of public instruction before being defeated for a third term by Michael J. Bakalis.

Page had to settle for a job with Canteen Corp. in Chicago when he was unable to land a position with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. His name had been submitted for a post as HEW's regional administrator for education but was withdrawn when opposition arose to his being placed over the man who defeated him in the election.

Also on the payroll of Canteen Corp., as a vice president, is William G. Stratton, 57, "the boy wonder of Illinois Politics" back in the 1950s when he served two terms as governor.

Like Smith, nothing seemed to go right for Stratton after he was defeated in 1960 for a third term by Otto Kerner, now under indictment for a racetrack

Reducing Heart Attack Deaths Constant Battle

The battle against heart and blood vessel diseases is winning important victories in treatment and prevention. This is evidenced by an 18 percent decline in the cardiovascular death rate for persons under 65 since 1950. Reduction of death rates for stroke, high blood pressure and hypertensive heart disease, have been particularly significant for the population as a whole. These advances have occurred since the American Heart Association instituted massive research programs following its founding as a national voluntary health agency in 1948.

Despite this progress, the death rate from heart attack has undergone little change. This year it is estimated that more than 670,000 persons will die from this leading killer, a loss of lives that the Heart Association is striving to reduce through its research, educational, and community service programs.

During the February Heart Fund Campaign, volunteers will distribute literature to homes throughout this community on the warning signs of heart attack and emergency measures to take when symptoms occur. Delay in recognizing symptoms and securing immediate medical treatment is responsible for many needless deaths. Therefore, it is vitally important for every citizen to know these potentially lifesaving facts.

It is also important to support the thousands of medical scientists and physicians who are seeking methods of preventing and controlling heart attack and other heart and blood vessel diseases, which take more than one million lives annually in this country. We can do this by giving generously when the Heart Fund volunteer calls for our Heart Fund contribution.

scandal while he was governor. Two more attempts by Stratton to regain the governor's chair never got past the Republican primaries. He was indicted and acquitted in 1965 of income tax evasion. His political involvement became limited to occasional appointments to state commissions, the latest being last summer as a member of the losing side on the Legislative Reapportionment Commission.

Still, he appears undaunted over being shunted to the political sidelines.

"I still have the title (he likes to be called 'governor') but none of the responsibilities," Stratton said.

Sam Shapiro, 64, who became governor in May, 1968, when Kerner was appointed to the federal bench, has been practicing law in Chicago and Kan- kakee since he was defeated the following November by Richard B. Ogilvie.

Shapiro said he still is "very interested in politics" but devoted most of his time to bar association matters and civic functions.

His only headlines since leaving office were as the attorney for Mrs. Michael Butler in her sensational divorce from the millionaire producer of "Hair."

The only politician who apparently believes his life is worth retelling is Paul Douglas, 80, a U.S. senator from 1948 to 1966, when he was defeated for a fourth term by Republican Charles Percy.

Douglas, who served two years as chairman of the President's Commission on Urban Problems after leaving the Senate, currently is putting the finishing touches on his autobiography, "In the Fullness of Time," which is due out in May.

He suffered a stroke in 1969 which "really shuts off my travel," and has been pretty much confined to the Washington, D.C., area where he lives.

Although he is no longer actively involved in politics, Douglas said he is very interested in seeing Lt. Gov. Paul Simon elected governor. Simon, in turn, considers Douglas one of his "political heroes" and the two men are close personal friends.

Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures
If you live in an area with a short growing season, and can't start your seeds indoors, raise fast-maturing varieties of vegetables.

In a long-season area, you can use the speedy varieties to fill in as you harvest a row.

Quick growers include: Garden cress 20 days, radishes 22, mustard greens 35, scal- lions 40, loosehead lettuce 40, spinach 42, turnips 35, swiss chard and summer squash 50, cucumber 53, early peas, beets, kale and kohlrabi 55.

When checking your seed catalog, look for disease resistant varieties. Diseases are a major problem in home gardens. Symptoms often don't show up until it is too late to do anything. Plant breeders are working constantly to develop vegetable and flower varieties that will resist diseases.

In Michigan, verticillium wilt, a fungus disease, gives gardeners most trouble. This fungus destroys the plant's ability to take up water and nutri- ents from the soil. The disease hurts tomatoes, potatoes, egg- plant, muskmelons and cucur- bers, especially.

Browsing through the new seed catalogs, a favorite winter pastime, indicates that many new or developed items will be available this spring. Here are some of them:

Right Royal Squash (Burpee) grown to a maximum of 300 pounds by originator Bob Fox. It tops Big Max, the 200-pound squash introduced by Burpee several years ago.

Alden Grape, big and blue; Winter-hardy Wilson's Ivy that will climb or spread, and Blue- eta Blueberry, early, large, hardy bush (Kelly Bros.).

Portulaca Sunseek, six colors, large; Petunia Maxi, multi- color, six colors, early; Chry- santhemum Autumn Glory, dwarf, perennial; Dianthus Queen of Hearts, bright red, Lily Rapture, perennial, four- foot.

Roses Golden Gate (Rose of the Year) yellow; White Masterpiece, six-inch blooms; Old Timer Copper glow, big; Heir- loom, lilac, Jackson & Perkins. Blueberries Giant Earliblue, Giant Bluecrop, Giant Late Blue; Thornless Blackberries; New Heritage and New Black Hawk raspberries, (Spring Hill Nurseries).

Old roses, Eglantine, Ma- dame Hardy, Tescany Superb, Crested Moss, Msk and Maid- en's Blush, (Tillotson's).

Unusual types of begonias, in- cluding Marmorata, camellia and carnation types, hanging basket; miscellaneous summer bulbs (Van Bourgondien).

If you aren't sure where you want to plant a shrub, plant a potted variety until you make up your mind. Moving a potted plant is comparatively easy and much safer than bare root stock or a balled and burlapped item.

Selection suggestions include azalea hybrids, hollies, crape myrtles, junipers, hibiscus, Fanane maple and rhodo- dendrons. Less popular but very nice are sweet pepper bush, clethra, daphne and dwarf Golden Thread Cypress. Growing in popularity for in- doors in the northern or colder states is the Norfolk pine.

First Motion Picture
The first motion picture copy- righted in the United States was the "Edison Kinetoscopic Rec- ord of a Sneeze" on Jan. 7, 1894. It featured Fred Ott, an em- ployee in Edison's laboratory, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

"Old Whitey"
The horse "Old Whitey" is associated with President Zachary Taylor. When Taylor moved into the White House, he had his favorite mount, Whitey, accompany him. When Taylor was buried, Old Whitey followed his master's body in the funeral procession.

Snowmobiles Worse On Ears Than Rock 'n' Roll Groups

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — The noise from some snowmobiles is potentially more damaging to hearing than that from most rock 'n' roll groups, two Mich- igan researchers say.

The noise levels of the heavy model of the winter sports ve- hicles "appear more intense than other forms of recreatio- al and environmental noise," they report.

Dr. Fred H. Bess and Robert E. Poyner of the Hearing Clinic of Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, report on their study of snowmobile noise in the February issue of the Ar- chives of Otolaryngology, pub- lished by the American Medical Association.

Many snowmobile drivers re- port a ringing in their ears and temporary hearing loss "after rides of even short duration," they say.

"Racing drivers have report- ed temporary losses varying from four to 14 days following competition racing," they add, and cite a case of marked per- manent hearing loss in one youth who had driven a high- power, "souped up" snow- mobile for five years.

The Central Michigan study involved 12 drivers, ages 11 to 33, and five passengers, ages 6 to 30, with a median age of 14.

The subjects rode the ve- hicles for two hours in a cross- country "safari" and were test- ed before and after the ride.

Even at idle the noise level from 22-horsepower snow- mobiles exceeded the levels considered to be potential-damaging, the researchers re- port.

Franklin Lions Observe 20 Year Mark

The 20th anniversary of the Franklin Lions club was cele- brated Monday evening, Feb. 14, at the high school in Frank- lin. One hundred fifty Lions and their wives and other guests were present. Included were several Lions and ladies from Lions clubs in neighboring towns.

The meal was served by Lion George Hamilton. The meeting was opened by the pledge of allegiance, followed by the in- vocation given by Reverend Lion Kenneth Junk.

Introductions were given by Paul Cranfill, president of Franklin Lions club.

An interesting history of the local club was given by Lion Wayne Rolston. Following group singing, Lion William Rees, charter member and first presi- dent, presented the charter members. District governor Dean Strubbe of Jacksonville presented awards to the 10- 15- and 20-year members of the local club.

The highlight of the evening was the address by Lion Johnny Balbo, third vice president, Lions International. Lion Balbo gave a very interesting and in- spiring talk on the work of Lions and new fields of activi- ties in which Lions are enter-

Measured half an hour after the "safari", the subject still showed some hearing loss, they found.

They observed that most of the subjects tested in the study rode the snowmobile an aver- age of two hours a day during the school week and three to five hours each on Saturday and Sunday.

Many snowmobilers ride for as long as eight hours on week- end trips, they noted.

The researchers said the noise levels produced by the 22- horsepower snowmobile should not be tolerated for more than eight minutes and those of the 26-horsepower engine for not more than two minutes.

"It seems certain," they said, "that snowmobile engine noise endangers hearing."

Consequently, they recom- mend that "drivers and riders should wear some form of pro- tection when snowmobiling, and governmental public health offi- cials should establish and moni- tor safe maximum sound pres- sure levels for snowmobile en- gines."

Unique Teacher
Maria Montessori first applied her unique teaching methods to defective children in 1899 and later used them with aver- age children to develop a world- wide educational system, ac- cording to Encyclopaedia Bri- tannica.

A l a s k a's Barter Island records the coldest average temperatures in the United States. February usually aver- ages 19.6 degrees below zero.

JHS Vs Griffin In Bowl Finale

A rare one-game weekend closes out the Jacksonville High school home season tonight, with the Crimsons still clinging to a slim hope for the title in the Capital Conference.

When the Crimsons entertain Springfield Griffin this evening in the final varsity action in the JHS Bowl this season, they will be looking first for a repeat victory over the Cyclones.

To stay alive in the conference race, however, JHS must get some outside help. The Crimsons, 15-6 overall after a pair of thrilling victories last weekend, are 8-4 in the league to Springfield Southeast's 8-2 and Eisenhower's 8-3. JHS and Eisenhower play 14 loop games to 12 by Southeast, which hosts Jacksonville next Friday in the regular season finale. Southeast is at Normal tonight before hosting JHS next week, while Eisenhower goes to Lanphier tonight, hosts Centennial Saturday and is at home vs Normal next Friday.

Jacksonville managed a slim 60-55 victory over Griffin in an earlier meeting this year, after leading by one point entering the final quarter. The Cyclones, 6-15 overall and 2-8 in the league, are expected to start with 6-0 junior Carl Sabo and 5-11 junior Dave Figueira at forwards, 6-2 senior Gary Gravit at center and 6-0 senior scoring leader Bob Zanot and 5-11 senior Larry Newquist at the guards. Gravit had 17 and Newquist 15 in the previous meeting between the two squads.

JHS coach Frank Long, who feels his club is playing its best ball of the year, will go with the same lineup that has started the past four games: Tim Olson and Cave Pack at forwards, Ron Fairchild at center and Jim Bonds and Ed Arling at guards, with Tim Reiterman and Leland Wilson expected to be the first off the bench. Fairfield's 17 points led the Crimsons in their earlier victory over Griffin.

Wilt: May Quit After One More

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, first player in pro basketball to reach the 30,000-point plateau, said Thursday he'll play one more season.

"But beyond that, I don't know."

The 7-1 Los Angeles Laker star scored 19 points and pushed his career total to 30,003 Wednesday night.

A goal tending call against Chamberlain in the closing seconds gave the Phoenix Suns a 110-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Lakers.

Cardinals Sign Seven Players To '72 Contracts

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals signed seven players to 1972 contracts Wednesday, including two candidates for the fifth starting position in the pitching rotation.

General Manager Bing Devine announced the signings of Al Santorini and Santiago Guzman, both seeking the fifth starting position.

Other players returning signed contracts were pitchers Rudy Arroyo and Jackie Stripling, infielders Ed Crosby and Mil Ramirez and catcher Skip Jutze.

The latest signings brought a total of 20 players into the Cardinal fold.

McDANIELS MOVES: Seattle Supersonics' player-coach Lenny Wilkens (r) states he will have Jim McDaniels (with glasses) working out with the team Thursday during a news conference in Seattle. The Sonics announced that they have signed a six-year contract with the seven foot star who recently walked out on the Carolina Cougars of the rival A.B.A. Between McDaniels and Wilkens is general manager Bob Roubreggs. Driver Killed In Daytona 500 Trials

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Friday Hassler, a quiet little guy who never won a major stock car race but never quit trying, was killed Thursday in a bloody, 13-car pileup during a 125-mile qualifier for Sunday's Daytona 500.

He leaves a wife and four sons. Hassler's two-year-old Chevrolet was pancaked in the grinding clash of metal and flesh on the 3,400-foot backstretch.

Joannie Hassler in the crowd of 40,000 watched as her husband died.

"I broke my heart," said fellow driver Bobby Allison. "Friday and me have been pals since 1959. He was a quiet man, but a guy who was a great friend whether he won or lost."

Allison blamed the victory in Thursday's second 125-mile chase. "I thought about old Friday every lap around," he said. "But, you've got to realize there's danger in what you do."

...but it's never easy to accept."

Bobby Isaac's Dodge and other front-running cars were in front of the trouble that occurred as the 30-car pack rumbled back to high speeds after a caution period following a spinout by James Hyton's Ford.

Isaac, pole winner last weekend for the 500 at a speed of 186.632 m.p.h., went on to take the event in which the 36-year-old Hassler perished. Hassler won $205 in the race that claimed his life.

A. J. Foyt won the outside pole last Saturday, but the three-time Indianapolis 500 king ran second to Allison Thursday in his Wood Brothers Mercury.

Raymond Williams, another driver in the crash, said a car wheeled by David Boggs blew a tire and hit a retaining wall to trigger the massive pileup.

The races decided 38 starting positions of the $178,000 Sunday feature behind front row residents Isaac and Foyt.

Jimmy Crawford of College Park, Ga., suffered facial lacerations and a fractured jaw in the massive crash that killed Hassler. He was driving a non-contending Dodge.

None of the other victims of the 13-car wreck was seriously hurt although husky Joe Frason of Minneapolis was taken to a hospital for X-rays of his neck.

Seven Crimsons On To Sectional

Seven Jacksonville High school wrestlers, including three district division champions and four runners-up, are slated to be with the top grapplers from the Springfield, Decatur, Wood River and Belleville East districts in the Granite City Sectional wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday.

The champions and runners-up in the 12 weight divisions from the four districts open the tournament with first round action starting at 7 p.m. Friday. After the semi-final round beginning at 1:30 Saturday, the finals and wrestle backs are set for 7 p.m. at the Granite City Senior High gym.

Leading the field of the seven Crimsons participants in the sectional meet are district champions Aaron Haley, Isaac Haley and Willie Stewart. Aaron Haley, who wrestles at 126, is a junior with two years varsity experience and a 25-21 record in competition this year. At 145, Isaac Haley holds an 18-5-3 meet count and is a senior with a full year's varsity experience. Stewart, wrestling at 185, is a junior in his first year of full varsity competition, holding a 7-11 record thus far.

In the District meet held last weekend at Springfield Southeast, the Crimsons, who finished the season with a 10-4 dual meet record, also qualified Steve Patterson, Jack Fortado, Mark Blimbing and Orville Wheatley for the sectional as they grabbed the runner-up spot in their respective divisions.

Patterson, a junior letterman with a 20-3 record, will compete at 98 pounds, while Fortado, wrestling at 119, holds a 7-6 mark in his first year of varsity experience. Mark Blimbing at 132 is now a senior, two year letterman with a 16-5 record, while first year junior Orville Wheatley, 10-12, set to go in the 155 pound class.

Jacksonville, which finished fifth in the Capital Conference Tournament despite its good dual meet mark, captured second at the District last weekend behind a strong Southeast team.

Southeast managed to qualify six for the sectional, including five champions.

The first and second place finishers in the seven sectional tournaments throughout the state will travel to Illinois State University the following weekend for the State Finals.

Date Set For 3 & 10 Mile 'Y' Road Race

An expanded version of the three and ten mile road race sponsored by the Sherwood Eddy YMCA and the Jacksonville Journal-Courier has been scheduled for Saturday, March 18, according to an announcement by 'Y' Executive Director, Don Hardesty.

The race is open to runners registered with the A.A.U. and will be sanctioned by the Central Division of the A.A.U. The entrance fee for the race is two dollars and anyone wishing to register with the A.A.U. should write for an application from Marvin L. Thomas, C.A.A.U. Office, 205 West Wacker Drive, Chicago 60606.

The course will be the same as the one used in the 1971 race, with the three and ten mile courses overlapping from a common starting line to the finish shute for the three mile runners from where the ten mile runners will continue on to the finish of the longer race.

There will be 11 divisions for runners, three more than last year when 44 participants cover the courses. The three mile event will have an open, juniors (8th grade and under), high school, 30-39 yrs., 40-49 yrs., 50 and over categories. There will be the same classes except for the juniors in the ten mile event, and trophies will be awarded for the first place runners in each division for both races, with second through fifth place runners receiving medals.

Dan Moy is the director of the meet, which will start at the YMCA at 1 p.m. sharp on the 18th.

Female Player Files Suit On IHSAA Ruling

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A suit filed in Springfield Thursday asks U.S. District Court to declare unconstitutional an Illinois High School Association rule barring females from competing on varsity athletic teams.

Tom Harris of Lincoln filed the suit on behalf of his daughter, Jean, 18, a student at Lincoln High School.

The suit said the girl was not allowed to play on the school's all-male varsity tennis team.

The suit is similar to one filed in Chicago on behalf of two female Hinsdale Central High School students who have been barred from entering swimming competition with all-male varsity teams.

Judge Richard B. Austin of Chicago refused Wednesday to issue a temporary restraining order that would have allowed the girls to participate in district swimming meets this week.

McDaniels Leaves ABA For Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association said Thursday they have signed Jim McDaniels to a six-year contract, but a spokesman for the team McDaniels left says he "wouldn't be too surprised if we remedied the situation."

The seven-foot rookie, who has been averaging 26.8 points and 14 rebounds a game for Carolina of the American Basketball Association, declined to spell out the reasons he was leaving the Cougars. The terms of his agreement with Seattle were not disclosed.

Meanwhile, controversy surrounding the switch continued to deepen.

It began with a suit filed by the Cougars seeking $1 million damages and an order to stop a Los Angeles attorney, Al Ross, from allegedly interfering with McDaniels.

Ross was the attorney who represented Spencer Haywood when he jumped from Denver of the ABA to Seattle last season. But McDaniels would not admit Thursday to any connection with Ross.

The suit contends McDaniels, a former star at Western Kentucky University, first signed with the Cougars in November 1970.

It says he signed a six-year, $1.357 million contract providing a $50,000 bonus with the salary to be paid over 25 years.

The suit maintains McDaniels wanted to renegotiate the contract to spread the salary over a 15-year period, with an additional $50,000 for aggravation.

But Western Kentucky said Thursday it has no reason to believe McDaniels signed a pro contract while playing with the college team.

If he had, it would mean McDaniels was ineligible to play for Western Kentucky when it finished third last season in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament.

Last year, the NCAA ruled that Villanova star Howard Porter had signed an early pro contract and ordered the university to forfeit its second-place finish and receipts received from the 1971 tournament at Houston.

In New York, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said McDaniels, drafted by the Supersonics in the second round of the 1971 NBA college draft, was eligible to be signed by Seattle.

"In addition," Kennedy said, "when submitting McDaniels' contract, the counsel for the Supersonics advised that there was nothing to prevent McDaniels from either signing a contract with Seattle or performing under it."

But Tom Farmer, an attorney for the Cougars' hinted the situation might be "remedied."

"I don't want to be too definitive today," Farmer said from his San Francisco office. He said any additional actions would be filed in Los Angeles federal court where the suit against Ross was filed.

There was also strong reaction from ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph and Cougars' owner Ted Munchak.

"We're going into court and fight it," Dolph said in New York, referring to the Seattle pact. "Where McDaniels plays is not negotiable. We have every confidence in the (Cougars) contract ... that it is valid. If it is no good, then no contract in sports is."

And Munchak, at a news conference in Charlotte, N.C., said the Cougars are seeking an injunction to prevent McDaniels from playing with any team besides the Cougars.

If McDaniels can play with Seattle, Munchak added, "it will mean open season on all sports contracts."

The amount of McDaniels' new contract was not revealed but Zollic Volchok, vice president of the Sonics, said it was "quite substantial."

5 Area Conferences Yet To Be Settled

All but two of the 32 local and area high school basketball teams finish their regular season this weekend, with still the business of conference championships and runner-up spots to be settled.

Heading the list of interest in the 28-game weekend slate that includes 19 conference battles, are the struggles to name winners in the MSM, Spoon River, Illinois Valley, Pike County and South Central loops.

The PMSC, with Routt already declared the overall winner, has the heaviest slate of activity with the runner-up spot up for grabs. Pleasant Hill (11-10 overall and 5-2 in the league) visits ISD (2-18 and 0-7), Triopia (9-14 and 4-3) goes to Bluffs (18-5 and 5-2), Chandlerville (7-13 and 3-4) travels to Meredosia (16-7 and 5-2) and Perry (9-12 and 2-5) hosts Virginia (3-17 and 1-6) all Friday evening.

Carrollton (19-3 and 6-1) has a share of the Illinois Valley crown sipped but can make it a clean sweep when the Hawks go after their 20th win of the year when they host Greenfield (6-12 and 0-7) tonight. Winchester (14-8 and 5-2) could share the crown with a Carrollton loss and a win at home against Calhoun (8-14 and 2-4) Friday. North Greene (8-14 and 4-3) is at Calhoun Saturday.

The MSM crown will be settled tonight when Porta (20-2 and 9-0) travels to Auburn (8-1). The defending Bluejays have already clinched a piece of the top rung. Northwestern (3-17 and 2-7) hosts Franklin (6-16 and 3-6) and Girard (5-4) entertains Waverly (2-19 and 1-8) in other MSM tilts Friday.

The Spoon River crown will likewise be settled this weekend when Havana (13-8 and 5-3) hosts Rushville (17-4 and 5-4) Friday and stays at home to entertain Beardstown (16-7 and 7-2) Saturday. The Ducks are hoping for a sweep and a title share with Beardstown.

The Pike County crown rests on tonight's Barry (17-6 and 5-1) at Griggsville (18-6 and 6-0) tilt, with Griggsville assured of half of the title. East Pike (4-18) is at Payson in another Friday meeting.

Southwestern (20-2 and 9-1) is at Staunton (0-10) Friday and at Gillespie (6-4) in a pair of South Central Conference games, with the Birds needing one win to clinch half the crown and two for the undisputed lead.

Other conference games this weekend have Jerseyville (7-12) at Bethalto Friday and at home vs Mississippi Valley and Glenwood (6-1) entertaining Pleasant Plains (14-10 and 4-3) in the Sangamo.

Non-conference games this weekend involve two of the local teams. An interesting game tonight finds Routt (13-9) going to Ashland (15-6), with Ashland visiting ISD Saturday in the local wrap-up of the regular season. Elsewhere tonight it will be Brown County (8-15) at Mendon of Unity, Beardstown entertaining Pittsfield (9-13) and New Berlin (9-14) at home vs Niantic.

Another comparative "shortie," Alan Hornyak, 6-1, of Co-leading Ohio State, kept the No. 2 spot he shared last week with Robinson at 24.5 despite a slump to 23.8.

Moving into third place with 23.1 was Michigan's veteran Henry Wilmore, jumping from a fifth-place 22.0 last week.

Other leaders, according to Big Ten figures posted Thursday, included: Wisconsin's Leon Howard and Iowa's Rick Williams, tied for fifth at 20.8; Indiana's Joby Wright 20.4; Nick Waterspoon of Illinois 17.7; Purdue's Bob Ford 17.6, and Minnesota's Clyde Turner 17.2.

Although Franklin's rebound average slumped from a 19.4 to 16.5 per game, the bounding Boilermaker remained the Big Ten's top retriever.

Tops in field-goal accuracy was Michigan State's Bill Kilgore with 59 per cent, while a pair of Indiana Hoosiers, Dave Shepherd and John Rittler ran one-two in free throw accuracy at .938 and .931.

Michigan, runnerup in the title chase behind deadlocked Ohio State and Minnesota, continued to set the Big Ten's offensive pace with an 83.9 average.

Next with 78.1 was Michigan State, followed by eight-place Iowa with 75.4.

Minnesota remained the team defensive leader with a stingy yield of 55.0 points per game, trailed by fifth-place Indiana with 66.8 and Ohio State with 70.8.

Liquori could have chosen to sit out for a while following the foot injury—but chose to work with it instead, and perhaps work it out. He was less than impressive two weeks ago in Toronto, though, finishing third in the mile in 4:09.9, and clocking a third-place 8:31.5 a week ago in the two-mile at Houston.

But he says his performance in the relay will determine how soon he runs his own race in New York. "I just might decide to run the mile in the AAU Championships in the Garden a week later."

"We don't have any seniors, so I think we'll have a pretty good team next season," Fink said. "One thing that motivates me to come back next year is the possibility of being here when the skid ends."

SCHOOL SEASON RECORD GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida tailback Tommy Duran scored 110 points as a sophomore in 1969 to set a school season record.

Liquori Regards Friday's Race As Personal Test

NEW YORK (AP) — "This relay race on Friday," Marty Liquori said of the 3,200 meters in the Olympic Invitational Track Meet, "will be sort of a test for me — to see how far back I've come."

The fans at Madison Square Garden for the meet are fortunate to be seeing Liquori at all. The former Villanova miler is recovering from a strained tendon in his foot, injured last fall as he prepared for the start of the season.

"I don't think I'm ready for a big individual race in New York just yet," said Liquori, who has won 13 of them in a row at the Garden—and doesn't want to see the strain break the string.

Instead, he'll anchor the final 800 meters in the relay for the New York Athletic Club. Preceding him will be a pair of former Villanova teammates—Frank Murphy and Chris Mason—and ex-Georgetown star Bob Zieminski.

Other standouts in the meet include Martin McGrady in the 500 meters, Dr. Delano Meriwether in the 50 meters, Leon Coleman and Rod Milburn in the 55-meter hurdles, Tom Von Ruden in the 1,000 meters, Reynaldo Brown in the high jump and Greece's world record holder Chris Papanicolaou in the pole vault.

Liquori could have chosen to sit out for a while following the foot injury—but chose to work with it instead, and perhaps work it out. He was less than impressive two weeks ago in Toronto, though, finishing third in the mile in 4:09.9, and clocking a third-place 8:31.5 a week ago in the two-mile at Houston.

But he says his performance in the relay will determine how soon he runs his own race in New York. "I just might decide to run the mile in the AAU Championships in the Garden a week later."

Bertelli, Smith Lead List For Football Hall

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Ten former stars, including Heisman Trophy winners Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame and Bruce Smith of Minnesota, were named Thursday to the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame representing the post-1920 years.

The others are Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee, Joe Stydahar of West Virginia, MacAldrich of Yale, Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma State, Bones Hamilton of Stanford, Mort Kaer of Southern California, Bill "Air Mail" Morton of Dartmouth and Charley O'Rourke of Boston College.

Wyatt, an end, and Stydahar, a tackle, were the only linemen among the 10 new members.

Pappin Allows Hawks To Catch Philadelphia 2-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Two goals by Jim Pappin six seconds apart and a marker by Stan Mikita in the third period Wednesday night pulled the Chicago Black Hawks into a 3-3 tie with the Philadelphia Flyers in a National Hockey League game.

The tie prevented the Flyers from winning their first game at Chicago in 14 tries since they entered the National Hockey League. They now are 0-10-4 in Chicago Stadium regular season games.

The Flyers grabbed a three-goal lead on tallies by Simone Nolel, Bill Flett and Bobby Clarke early in the second period. But rookie goalie Bob Taylor, playing his first NHL game, was unable to hold off the Hawks' swarming attack.

Pappin drove a 40-footer past Taylor at 2:57 after taking a pass from Bryan Campbell and, on the subsequent faceoff, the big right wing got the draw from Andres Andre Lacroix, skated a few strides into Philadelphia territory and drove a 50-footer into the cage at 3:03.

Mikita's tying goal—a 30-foot drive down the slot—came at 5:08. Taylor, called up from the Flyers' Richmond farm team to replace ailing Bruce Gamble, pulled himself together after the third goal and turned in several brilliant saves to preserve the deadlock.

Players Say No Merit Pay Hoax

NEW YORK (AP) — The executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association charged Thursday that several clubs, including the St. Louis Cardinals and Atlanta Braves, are using Phase II of wage-price controls to avoid paying merited salary increases.

"There have been scattered attempts by some owners and general managers to allege that government regulations prevent them from giving increases," said Marvin Miller. "They're using it as a wedge to avoid paying otherwise merited increases."

"It's a dirty pool, and highly improper. Every time that is done it's a violation of an agreement we reached with the owners before contracts even went out not to do this."

Miller then cited public statements on the subject by Gusie Busch, the owner of the Cardinals, pointed to the Braves as another offender and added "here and there there have been other cases, although most clubs have lived up to the understanding we've had."

The issue, of course, has taken on increasing importance this week as players begin reporting to spring training camps in Florida, Arizona and California. Miller would not hazard a guess as to whether it would become a major problem.

The Cardinals and Braves, however, have two unsigned superstars who, following good seasons, likely are looking for hefty raises—Joe Torre of St. Louis, the National League's Most Valuable Player, and Atlanta's Hank Aaron.

Miller said the agreement reached with the owners on how to handle salary discussions under Phase II of wage-price controls was "that negotiations would continue as normal until we had specifics."

"Now we've had a few cases in which someone asks for a sizeable increase and the owner says 'I can't pay that much—if I give you that I won't be able to give raises to any of the other players.'"

"That's nonsense," Miller said the key to the problem was whether the established 5.5 per cent average salary increase limit placed on units of more than 1,000 employees applied to baseball. He also noted the wage-price board allows for length of service increases and merit increases.

Triopia Graders Win District

BLUFFS — Triopia Grade school downed Bluffs 35-28 Thursday night to capture the championship of the Bluffs District Basketball Tournament.

Triopia, now 15-3, was paced by Aufdenkamp and Bumgarner with 11 apiece, while Tony Albertin hit 19 for Bluffs.

Winchester topped Griggsville 33-26 to take third place.

Arm Loss Only Slows Wrestler

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Last summer a meat grinder took most of Kevin Guptill's lower left arm, and it seemed a promising high school wrestling career was over. Less than eight months later he is a divisional champion seeking the state crown this weekend.

Guptill, a 16-year-old junior at Bozeman Senior High School, lost the arm just below the elbow while helping his father grind meat at a Bozeman grocery store last June 23.

"Even when he was in the hospital he decided he would be a state champion," says Guptill's coach, Bill Townsend, who watched his charge endure defeat after defeat during the early season before the boy's new wrestling style catapulted him into the favorite role for the 108-pound championship.

"I wasn't accustomed to losing and I really got discouraged when a couple of freshmen beat me," says Guptill, who won the Western Class A title a year ago and then placed third in the state tournament.

"A lot of his opponents seemed to have an aversion to the bad arm, so they attacked his good one," Townsend said. "It was more logical anyway to tie up his one good hand."

Guptill switched to using his legs more, using a cross-body and figure-four ride while in the up position, and using more moves underneath that didn't require hand-fighting.

He lost more than he won during the season, but the victories began coming just before the divisional tournament. Although a defending champion, he was unseeded because of his mediocre season record. He was also in the same bracket as the top three seeds.

Pinning his first opponent, Guptill followed with decisions over the top seeds, two of them regarded as among the best in the state.

Townsend was only half surprised. "We actually counted on him to take third or fourth if we wanted to take the team championship," he said.

"I think I have a shot at the state title," Guptill said, and Townsend, not sure at first, agrees.

"He has a lot of desire and I think he has inspired us to a much better season than we expected," Townsend said.

"There wasn't anything I could do about it. I just had to adjust," Guptill said, shrugging his shoulders.

Coach Discusses Big Cage Brawl

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — He coaches a major college basketball team.

It is one of the better teams in the Midwest, and when he was asked whether he'd be willing to discuss the Minnesota-Ohio State affair he said sure, why not, every coach in the Midwest was still discussing it. He'd go even further than that. Every coach in the country was still talking about it.

"I think," said this particular coach about the Jan. 25th Minneapolis brawl, "the incident was horrible. Anytime you let a thing like that happen, a lot of people have to share the blame. You wonder about the police protection. How did they ever let those fans get on the floor? Then you have to wonder about the officials. They're the ones who really control the game."

What about the coaches?
"I'll tell you about the coaches," said this one. "If what happened to that Minnesota coach happened to me, my boss not only would hold me completely responsible, he'd fire me right on the spot. I think he'd be perfectly right. I teach my kids there is no way to retaliate from that sort of thing on the basketball floor. If they get busted in the mouth, they back off. That's the way they've been taught."

It is difficult now, if not impossible, to decide precisely who was right and who was wrong on the night of Jan. 25 in Minneapolis. I have to go along with one eyewitness who says "It was a brawl and there weren't many angels on the floor that night."

For those who weren't at the game, and they include me, the TV cameras clearly show how one Minnesota player delivered a knee to the groin of an Ohio State rival while offering his hand presumably to help pick him off the floor.

Later, the Minnesota player who did that said the Ohio State player had first spit at him.

But the trouble of course goes much deeper than that. Among those being blamed by some for what happened is Bill Musselman, the Minnesota coach. Musselman did what he could to try and stop the brawl. Naturally, he feels badly over what happened.

He is a man who believes in winning, like all coaches, and like many coaches also, he sometimes plasters inspiring slogans in the team dressing room to fire up his players. Musselman came to Minnesota from Ashland College where his teams also figured in two brawls.

Of course Bill Musselman has to share part of the blame. But certainly no more or less than others at Minnesota, Ohio State or any other school for that matter if what they are doing is putting winning above everything else.

Why blame Bill Musselman entirely? He only did what he was hired to do, tried to win. Little else really matters these days. Not many people seem to care how you play the game anymore. All anybody cares about is the score. If you lose, you're shunned, almost as if you had contracted some social disease. There's treatment for that. What can you do for a loser?

Coaches all over are having more and more trouble maintaining discipline, a form of behavior rapidly disappearing everywhere, in sports, in business and in everyday conduct. Discipline is training to act in accordance with rules. Who bothers with rules today? Practically nobody.

In that regard I can't help remember the way Joe McCarthy used to manage the Yankees.

"If you're a Yankee, act like a Yankee," he'd tell his players, then make sure they did.

What was a Yankee? Nobody really created differently than any other ballplayers but McCarthy made it seem something special by fostering this quality his players wanted to exemplify themselves. Pride would be another word for that.

Once when one of his players forgot for a moment and stretched himself out while sitting in the dugout, McCarthy snapped at him:

"Sit up straight and pull your feet in. Where do you think you are, in a row boat?"

There is nothing wrong with the Minnesota basketball team trying to win a ball game.

There is something wrong when any team places such a premium on winning that all other human values become completely subordinate.

Virginia High To Host PMSC Cage Tourney

Virginia High school will be hosting the 1972-73 season PMSC Conference Basketball Tournament, it was announced at the conference's annual dinner meeting at the Blackhawk Restaurant Thursday evening.

Virginia High recently completed an extensive renovation of its gymnasium and can now seat some 1,300 spectators. It is believed that next year's meet will be the first PMSC Tournament ever hosted by Virginia. Tournament dates next year are Jan. 16-19.

In other action, the conference:

— Discussed publication of a conference sportsmanship code to be published and distributed to the nine participating schools.

— Voted to hold the conference track meet at Pleasant Hill on May 3.

— Discussed the possibility of making the conference tournament a consolation bracket type, but delayed voting on the item until next fall.

— Commended Meredosia High school for its outstanding job in hosting this season's conference basketball tournament.

Panel May Urge Legalizing Private Use Of Marijuana

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national commission may recommend legalizing the private use of marijuana in an effort to strip away the myths which tempt some people to try it and fill others with fear of it.

Sources close to the 13-member panel say the recommendations will stop short of endorsing total legalization.

The thrust of the report "is to defuse the marijuana issue, to strike away the emotional mythology about the drug," the sources said.

Commission officials have declined comment until March 22 when the report will be presented to President Nixon and Congress.

The conservative-dominated commission, headed by former Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania and including nine persons picked by Nixon, "takes a dramatic step to decriminalize private use of marijuana in the home—while discouraging use by keeping other things criminal," such as public use, sources say.

The panel also concluded, the sources add, that "while excessive use may be harmful, no clear evidence was found that moderate use had detrimental effects on the user." There was no real evidence that marijuana-users are being spurred by the drug to commit major crime or to go on to hard narcotics, they say.

These findings stem from some 50 reports and from testimony at a series of hearings and private meetings, from which it was decided marijuana "is not a seriously damaging drug," the sources said. Long-term impact has not been determined, they said.

It was also learned that the commission is expected to recommend decreasing penalties for possessing marijuana, and that the panel would call for retaining criminal penalties for driving under the influence of the drug.

However, disputes developed over such issues as whether criminal penalties should be continued for those who give marijuana to friends.

"The commission said that, except for that found in a home, marijuana could be confiscated—and that the drug could be controlled except in homes.

"Less than one ounce in public would not be illegal but it could be controlled and would be contraband, and more than one ounce would be illegal. Sale of marijuana would be illegal. They want a mechanism to get at the guy who pushes it, but they disagree on what to do with casual" exchanges, the sources said.

The recommendations will go to Congress for consideration in acting on proposed changes in federal drug laws, and as suggestions for similar revisions in state legislatures.

An earlier commission study showed that 24.6 million Americans have tried marijuana, with 8.3 million current users.

Walker Debates Tape Recorder

QUINCY, Ill. (UPI) — Independent Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Dan Walker has restated his opposition to an increase in the state income tax or the addition of any new state taxes.

Walker spoke to about 20 persons at a local motel Wednesday in a "simulated debate" with Democratic party backed Gov. Paul Simon.

Walker played a tape recording of Simon's statement made earlier this week calling for increases in the state income tax coupled with decreases in other forms of taxation.

"Paul Simon goes one way—I increase the income tax. I go another way — let's cut the cost in state government," Walker said. "I say unequivocally I am against any increase in the state income tax or any new taxes."

Walker, who faces Simon in the March 21 primary for the Democratic gubernatorial bid, said that if the state budget could be cut by 10 per cent, the state would save more than $500 million.

Issue New Recording Of 'Boris Godunov'

By WILBUR G. LANDRY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The image of old Russia, dark violence, the intrigue of the boyars, a sullen and waiting people, rises like thick smoke from the music of Modest Mussorgsky's opera "Boris Godunov."

Boris becomes Czar through the murder of the child heir Dimitri but himself dies mad in the Kremlin while a Pretender purporting to be Dimitri marches victoriously on Moscow.

Mussorgsky captured the darkness and power of the events, and a new recording of his opera, directed by Herbert Von Karajan and issued in four records by London Records (OSA 13101), captures it as well, sung in Russian as it should be.

Nicolai Ghiaurov, the Bulgarian bass, sings a dramatic Boris, Ludovico Spies, the Rumanian tenor, a fine Dimitri. The remainder of the main cast — Galina Vishnevskaya as Marina, Martti Talvela as the old monk Pimen, Zoltan Kelemen as the Jesuit Rangoni and Aleksei Maslennikov as both the Idiot and Prince Shuisky are equally suited to their roles.

Von Karajan has the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra and members of the Vienna Boys Choir, the Sofia Radio Chorus and the Vienna State Opera Chorus to work with as well, and the result is excellent.

Russian Charged With Spying Freed On Bail

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Soviet Embassy official went into court Wednesday night and carefully counted out 700 new $100 bills and 600 $50 bills, freeing on bail a Russian national charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

Bail for the Russian, Valery I. Markelov, 33, originally had been set at $500,000 but Magistrate Max Schiffman lowered it to $100,000 after assurances of Markelov's future movements were promised from the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin.

Markelov, a translator at the United Nations, is charged with "soliciting and obtaining" secret plans of a new Navy jet fighter from an engineer employed by Grumman Aerospace Corp.

The unidentified engineer had been working closely with the FBI since the fall of 1970 and had met with Markelov at 11 different places under the surveillance of the FBI.

When the suspect was arrested Monday night by federal agents he was in possession of the classified documents, according to authorities.

Schiffman scheduled a hearing for Feb. 25.

Only 12 per cent of China's 3,691,506 square miles is cultivated, says National Geographic.

Simon Straddles 'Fence Problem'

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Paul Simon has chosen to straddle the "fence problem" issue by refusing to pledge to tear down a 12-foot brick wall going up around the governor's mansion should he become the next governor.

But Simon also went to great lengths Wednesday to disclaim any credit for the wall when a student at Lincoln Land Community College asked him why the wall was being built.

"Well, I can tell you quite frankly I had nothing to do with its being built," Simon said. "I didn't order the wall."

"Would you tear it down if you're governor?" persisted the student, who said he has wanted to grill someone in the "Illinois bureaucracy" about the wall for a long time.

"I haven't studied the fence problem closely," Simon replied, bringing laughter from 200 LLCC students who gathered to ask Simon questions about his run for the governor's seat.

Springfield architect August Wisnosky, in charge of renovating the mansion, has said the 12-foot red brick wall going up on three sides of the building will "form an enclosure for garden and landscape development as well as afford privacy."

Hughes

Hughes' sudden departure from his hotel suite in Nassau, Bahamas, comes in the midst of New York court hearings on Clifford Irving's purported "Autobiography of Howard Hughes," a book that has been called a hoax by Time magazine.

The Las Vegas Review-Journal in Nevada quoted Hughes sources as saying it wasn't the billionaire's intention to stay long in Nicaragua.

"This is just a temporary stop. We expect him to arrive in the United States shortly and there is a good chance he will hold a face-to-face press conference."

Another Hughes source in Las Vegas said Hughes eventually plans to go to Mexico to live permanently.

The announcement by the office of Nicaragua's president quoted Somoza as saying: "In view of the business conversations that we have been having with representatives of the Hughes Tool Co., I am very pleased that Mr. Hughes has accepted my invitation to come to visit us."

State Department sources in Washington said they understood Hughes has business interests in Nicaragua.

Somoza had already left Managua by the time of the announcement for a previously scheduled official visit to Panama.

It was believed Hughes would remain in Nicaragua until the president's return Saturday or Sunday.

The Somoza family has run Nicaragua since 1936, except for a four-year interim.

Somoza's interests include shipping, the national airline, cattle ranches, fishing, plywood, textiles and buildings.

Nicaragua lies on the Central American neck between Honduras and Costa Rica. It is only about half the size of Nevada, where Hughes last lived in the United States.

The country is the largest—50,193 square miles—and the least densely populated—2 million people—of the so-called "banana republics" of Central America.

In his usual manner, Hughes slipped secretly away from his hotel in Nassau where he had been secluded for 15 months.

A cargo plane carrying a hospital bed, blood plasma stand, bottled water and many other items from the Hughes' ninth-floor suite in the Britannia Beach Hotel flew early Thursday to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., then on to Managua.

Officials of the Britannia Beach, who said they had never laid eyes on Hughes since he left Las Vegas, Nev., on Thanksgiving Eve, 1970, did not know when the reclusive himself left the island.

The Miami News said it determined that Hughes was ordered to leave the Bahamas because he had stayed beyond the legal eight-month limit. A visitor then must take out a residence permit or leave and re-enter the Bahamas.

The residency requirement was not enforced previously, the News said, because the government could not confirm that Hughes ever had actually been in Nassau. The unprecedented telephone news conference Hughes gave to deny the authenticity of the Irving autobiography established for the first time that Hughes was there.

The Bahamas minister of home affairs, Arthur D. Hanna, who is in charge of all immigration matters, said in a statement that Hughes had not been asked to leave.

"During the course of routine investigation," Hanna said, "it has been discovered that non-Bahamians allegedly employed by Mr. Hughes were in the Bahamas without proper immigration status and were escorted out of the Commonwealth by immigration officials."

In Los Angeles, Richard Hannan, publicity chief of the Hughes Tool Co., said he inferred from his sources that Hughes left the hotel Tuesday.

Raids

It said only about 100 American advisers and technical personnel were within actual range of the guns at Quang Tri and South Vietnamese fire bases just south of the DMZ. There are about 1,000 troops at Phu Bai and some 200 advisers and other mixed U.S. personnel north of Da Nang.

One source said the Americans in that region are now reliant on the South Vietnamese for protection and added, "If they get rolled up, we get rolled up."

The fear of American officials is that the big guns might be used to furnish an artillery screen for large-scale North Vietnamese attacks across the DMZ, as they were for the invasion and capture of the Plain of Jars in Laos last December.

The presence of the powerful 130mm guns within range of South Vietnam substantiated in part the assessment of a senior American military source. He told The Associated Press Wednesday that the Communist command is expected to put "a lot more emphasis on firepower" in its expected offensive this year.

The command's preliminary reports indicated that five artillery guns were destroyed or damaged in the raids and that the strikes on the missile and antiaircraft sites also were successful.

In all, more than 600 strikes were flown against enemy positions in North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia in the past two days, informants said.

The massive air strikes, flown by Air Force and Navy planes, came as President Nixon prepared to depart on his journey for peace to China, and were the heaviest since last December.

The U.S. Command maintained the air strikes were "in accordance with our repeatedly announced determination to protect American lives as thousands of additional U.S. forces are being withdrawn from Vietnam."

Many observers, however, saw the air campaign as an attempt to squish any possible North Vietnamese offensive which, if successful could prove embarrassing to the President in his talks with Chinese leaders.

Knicks Return To Shock Bulls By 102-99 Edge

CHICAGO (AP) — Dave DeBusschere climaxed an almost unbelievable comeback by scoring on a short jump shot with 25 seconds remaining in overtime Thursday night enabling the red hot New York Knicks to edge the Chicago Bulls, 102-99, New York's sixth consecutive NBA triumph.

The Knicks, winning for the ninth time in 11 contests this month, trailed by as many as 23 points, 69-46, with 6:50 remaining in the third period.

The Bulls, led by Chet Walker and Norm Van Lier, helped Chicago maintain a 79-66 fourth-quarter advantage.

Early in the fourth period New York employed three guards, Walt Frazier, Earl Monroe and Dean Meminger, and tied the score at 90-90 on a 20-footer by DeBusschere.

Chicago took the ball out of bounds missed a shot.

Frazier took a long shot with three seconds left that missed. Jerry Lucas, Frazier and Monroe hit consecutive baskets in the first two-and-one half minutes of the overtime before Chicago could score.

Walker's short jumper with 1:04 left tied the contest at 98-98 before DeBusschere put his team ahead to stay.

Bob Weiss of the Bulls had a chance to win it for Chicago but his 20-footer hit the rim with three seconds left and Lucas grabbed the rebound.

Dick Barnett added two free throws with two seconds remaining.

Frazier led the Knicks with 22 points followed by Monroe with 20 and DeBusschere with 19. Walker led all scorers with 28 while Norm Van Lier had 22.

Truck Driver Suffers Injury

An Ohio truck driver was undergoing treatment at Passavant hospital Thursday morning following an accident about a mile west of the city on Routes 67 and 104.

The accident happened at 4:05 a.m. according to state police when an eastbound semi-trailer ran off the highway and into a 20-foot ditch and overturned.

Paul R. McClenathan, 43, of Bellview, Ohio, driver of the truck, told authorities he fell asleep and a wheel dropped off into the mud on the shoulder of the roadway.

The truck was loaded with parts for a crane and damage was estimated at $12,000.

ALLEGED BOMBER CAPTURED IN CANADA THURSDAY

TORONTO (AP) — Karleton Lewis Armstrong, wanted for murder in the 1970 bombing of a U.S. Army research center at the University of Wisconsin, was arrested here the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said Thursday.

Armstrong, 24, his brother, Dwight, 20; Frederick Burt, 23, of Darby, Pa.; and David S. Fine, 19, Wilmington, Del., were accused of bombing a laboratory building at the Madison, Wis., school in August 1970, during a series of antiwar acts of vandalism on the campus.

The RCMP said Armstrong was arrested without a struggle Wednesday in a Toronto rooming house and was being held for an immigration inquiry.

The former UW student had been working in a factory, officials said. The whereabouts of his brother, Fine and Burt remained uncertain.

The FBI had placed the four on its list of most-wanted fugitives after a truck cargo of nitrogen fertilizer and fuel oil exploded, ripping through UW's five-story Sterling Hall. The building contained the campus' Army Mathematics Research Center, a target of anti-Vietnam war protests.

A graduate student, Robert Fassnacht, died in the predawn blast while working on a laboratory report.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — State and local government pensions funds have discovered the stock market. In just one year they jumped their holdings of New York Stock Exchange stocks to $12.3 billion from $8.2 billion.

While this increase helped push holdings of all institutions to more than 40 per cent of the value of Big Board shares, perhaps the more meaningful story is the reason behind the growing percentage.

Important as the trustee of an important sum of money would hardly consider investing heavily in stocks, mainly because of the risk. Preservation of capital rather than capital gains was the prime consideration.

Increasingly during the post-World War II years the wisdom of the concept was tested and found wanting. Capital invested in conservative securities, such as bonds, was found to erode rather than remain constant.

Inflation was to blame, of course. But more precisely, the shift into stocks can be attributed to an awareness of inflation.

Except for recessions, this country generally does have some inflation, if only at the rate of 2 or 3 per cent a year. But in the 1950s, investors became aware of the damage wrought by even small rates of inflation.

Their awareness was made acute by contrast with the stock market. During the 1930s, stocks didn't do much of anything and so there was a tendency to discount them as an investment vehicle. But they rose during the 1950s.

Gradually, even the most conservative money managers couldn't ignore the evidence—that money invested in stocks not only was preserving capital but was adding to it as well.

Insurance companies began putting more funds into stocks. Bank trust departments did likewise, as did college and university endowments and non-profit foundations. Even corporate pension funds were so invested.

Pension funds of local and state governments, however, were generally restricted to more conservative securities. Managers were constrained by state laws to bonds, and then often to bonds of their own locality.

The pressures to relieve those restraints gradually mounted. Inflation, remember, was making their performance look awfully bad. Moreover, as state and local governments grew in size, more and more people were becoming dependent in their old age on the success of those investments.

In 1957 Wisconsin decided to permit more stock investments but many other states and cities didn't follow until the early and mid-1960s. These pension funds, therefore, are still in the process of realigning their portfolios, which accounts for the big percentage gain in stock holdings.

Here are the statistics that document the shift into equities by the institutions.

Life insurance companies, $3.2 billion in stock in 1960, $15.2 billion in 1971.

Nonlife insurers, $6 billion in 1960, $15.5 billion in 1971.

Noninsured corporate pension funds, $13.5 billion in 1960, $72.2 billion in 1971.

State and local government pension funds, $400 million in 1960, $12.3 billion in 1971.

College endowments, $2.9 billion in 1960, $7.8 billion in 1971.

Foundations, $5.3 billion in 1960, $14.9 billion in 1971.

Common trust funds, $1.4 billion in 1960, $4.6 billion in 1971.

Much of the increase can be attributed to the growth in the size of the institutions, rather than in their investment philosophy. And not to be forgotten, either, is that the size of their holdings has been accelerated by capital appreciation.

It's a good bet, though, that the great majority of institutional portfolio managers are inclined to view the future economy as an inflated one and that it is better to try to ride the crest with equity investments.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Youth With Potential To Succeed Sought

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Willis Walter, a self-made man with old fashioned ideas about the flag and the free enterprise system, wants to make millionaires out of 25 bright young entrepreneurs around the country.

Walter, who founded and built the Jim Walter Corp. of Tampa, Fla. into a $700 million per year home building and allied products company, will spend the next 10 months trying to find the 25 young men and women with the best potential for succeeding in the business world.

It's his idea of celebrating the 25th anniversary of the company he started with $500 of his own money and $400 in borrowed capital.

Each of the finalists, and they must be between 18 and 25 years of age, will receive $1,000 at the company's annual meeting next December. But that's only seed money.

SOYBEAN FUTURES ADVANCE 1 1/2 CENTS
CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans futures advanced 1 1/2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday.

Soybean oil and meal also were higher but early gains in grain futures were being threatened. Iceed broilers were down some 10 points in very light trade.

Soybeans had opened on an irregular tone. Minutes later as the buying interest improved in soybean meal and oil, then soybean prices rallied. Strongest activity was in the nearby options.

Meal gained more than 50 cents a ton while oil advanced 10 points.

Some of the strength in futures again was attributed to the strong possibilities that the West Coast longshoremen's strike and the grain handlers dispute might soon end.

Wheat futures again showed strength on the opening but profit-taking by local professionals then turned prices around.

Some of the strength in the wheat pit was a carryover from the previous session when prices advanced nearly 2 cents.

Commercial hedging in the corn pit was minimal and demand good. Oats shared in some of this buying interest, but to a lesser degree.

After about an hour, soybeans were unchanged to 1 cent a bushel higher, March 3.17 1/2, wheat was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, March 1.61; corn was unchanged to 1/4 higher, March 1.19 1/2 and oats were unchanged to 1/4 higher, March 77 1/4.

Token Incentive
"The cash reward is really only a token incentive," said Walter. "The opportunity for these young people to receive national attention should ultimately prove the greatest reward of all."

Local organizations throughout the 50 states will nominate candidates for the company's Youth Enterprise Award. The company already has written 70 associations such as Rotary clubs and Youth Achievement groups to get the ball rolling.

Eventually, every area of the country will be polled by phone and letter to extract nominations in 25 business categories ranging from architecture and agriculture to transportation and travel.

Encouraging and coordinating this nationwide search is the big cost to Walter's company.

Diverse Judges
When all the nominations are gathered by Oct. 2, they'll be culled by an awards committee of seven to nine judges. Prominent business and financial executives with diverse views and economic interests will do the judging. John L. Loeb of Loeb, Rhoades & Co. and William I. Spencer, president of the First National City Bank, both of New York, already have accepted as judges.

Winners will be notified by October 30 and they'll be honored in Tampa on December 7.

To some cynics the whole project may sound a little corny. But to Walter, who was born in Lewes, Del. and along the road to success won the Horatio Alger Award, it's all very logical.

If the aspiring young capitalist of today has national exposure, in addition to the assets Walter started with, he may go even farther, as Walter sees it.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking put a lid on stock market gains Thursday in an active trading session.

Investors who bought selected issues Tuesday and Wednesday, fueling a market advance, moved to the sidelines. Meanwhile, profit takers took advantage of recent gains and sold.

Some analysts noted that a number of favorable economic developments occurred during the previous two sessions but that there was no fresh stimulating news Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks ended the day down 0.91 at 922.03. The blue chip indicator had been up more than 4 points early in the day and had gained over 12 points in the previous two sessions.

Declining issues edged out advances 715 to 713 among the 1,744 issues traded on the Big Board. Volume of 22.33 million shares was up from the 20.67 million shares traded Wednesday.

Curtiss-Wright, which rose more than 14 points in the previous eight sessions, was the most actively traded Big Board issue, closing down 1 at 31 on 979,300 shares.

Curtiss-Wright has North American rights to the Wankel rotary engine, and analysts said there was speculation that General Motors would begin producing the engine in volume soon. GM declined comment.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks closed down .01 at 58.63.

The Associated Press 60-stock average finished the day off .3 at 328.6. Industrials were off 1.1, utilities were down .3 and rails were up .4.

A total of 165 blocks of 10,000 shares or more were traded on the Big Board, compared with a revised total of 163 Wednesday.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index dropped .03 to 27.55. Volume of 7.01 million shares compared with 6.86 million shares Wednesday. Declines outnumbered advances 563 to 422 among the 1,225 Amex issues traded.

Finances Peak For Education; Students Next

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UPI) — Dr. James B. Holderman, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, yesterday defended the board's recommended budgets for state colleges and universities.

Those who insist there must be more money for growth are "ignoring the circumstances of the moment," he said.

"There are some who contend that growth, new programs, students and initiatives cannot be accommodated without a sizeable infusion of new money on a recurring basis," he said.

"While that alternative might be ideal, it ignores the circumstances of the moment. It also suggests that everything we are now doing in higher education has a higher priority than any of the new programs or responses now demanded of us."

Holderman made the remarks in a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the Kankakee Rotary club.

He said the board, in approving a budget for state colleges and universities last month, had recognized that "a fiscal plateau has been reached and that an enrollment plateau is but a few years away."

The budget recommends $571.3 million to operate institutions of higher education in fiscal 1973, an increase of about 5 per cent over current levels.

It was the lowest increase recommended by the board since it was formed 11 years ago and drew heavy criticism from many university officials. University of Illinois President John E. Corbally Jr. said the budget report "lacks vision, and it does a disservice to higher education in Illinois."

Holderman said he drafted the budget after conferences with state officials who told him only about $30 million in additional state funds will be available for higher education in fiscal 1973.

The Illinois General Assembly and Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie must approve the higher education budget before it becomes effective.

Holderman said today the board felt universities could free some of the money they are now using and put it into new activities by phasing out or reducing current programs. "Should an institution decide it cannot or will not honor the state's high and low priorities with an appropriate reallocation of dollars," he said, "it is essentially ignoring the state's perspective which many authorities assert as essential as we face the limited dollars and growing demands of the events."

Second Chicago Grain Elevator Settles Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — The second of six Chicago-area grain-elevator companies strike-bound since Sept. 1 has reached agreement with Local 418 of the Grain Elevator, Flour and Feed Mill Workers Union.

The strike continues at four other companies.

The Dixie-Portland Grain Co. Wednesday signed a four-year contract calling for stepped up hourly raises amounting to $2.06 in wages and fringe benefits, said John McQuade, Local 418 president. Average hourly pay had been $3.86.

The company employs about 20 union members. The local has a total membership of 200.

McQuade said the settlement was the same as that made in November by the Carey Grain Corp., which also employs about 20 handlers.

Workers remain on strike against Continental Grain Co., Indiana Grain Cooperative, Garvey Grain Co. and the Farmers' Grain Dealers Association of Iowa.

"Negotiations have broken down again with the other four companies," McQuade said. "We are together on wages and fringes, but they are balking at Pay Board language in the contract."

The local began a strike Sept. 1 against the six companies after its contract expired.

The workers were ordered back on the job by a federal judge Oct. 1, after the companies filed suit saying the strike constituted a national emergency.

The temporary restraining order was vacated Nov. 6 when another federal judge rejected the companies' claims.

Carey then signed with the local, and negotiations with the other five companies remained at a standstill until the settlement Wednesday.

Plan Apollo 17 Launch For December 6

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 17, the last planned manned mission to the moon, will be launched Dec. 6 and is scheduled to land in a moon mountain valley thought to be filled with volcanic ash, the space agency announced Wednesday.

The landing point will be in the center of the upper right quarter of the moon, as viewed from the earth, several hundred miles north of the Apollo 11 landing site.

Scientists and engineers made the site selection from high-resolution photographs taken during Apollo 15.

Officials said the site offers a combination of terrain—with rugged mountains and cliffs, a spectacular rock slide, the flat dark valley thought to be volcanic material, and nearby peaks thought to be volcanic cinder cones.

Launch of Apollo 17 should be spectacular. It is scheduled for 9:38 p.m. and will be the first Apollo blastoff at night.

Apollo 17's crew will include the first academically trained geologist, scientist-astronaut Harrison Schmitt, commander of the mission, will be veteran spaceman Eugene Cernan, and the third crewman is space rookie Ronald E. Evans. Cernan and Schmitt will land on the moon while Evans remains in orbit.

Cernan and Schmitt will use a lunar rover car to visit a number of geology investigation sites on the moon.

Presence of possible volcanoes near the site makes it particularly attractive to scientists.

If the peaks are in fact cinder cones, scientists expect there will be rocks near the landing site which were brought up from great depths. These would be the first good samples of material from deep within the lunar interior.

PENCIL - CHEWERS, BEWARE
CHICAGO (UPI) — People who chew pencils because they are nervous should be nervous about eating poisonous lead.

"Family Safety," publication of the National Safety Council, says New York City Health Department tests showed that more than one-third of a sampling of wooden pencils sold in the city were coated with lead paint.

Public Notice is given that on February 3, A.D. 1972, a certificate was filed in the Office of the County Clerk of Morgan County, Illinois, setting forth the names and post-office addresses of all of the persons owning, conducting and transacting the business known as QUIGG & CO., located at 110 East North Street, Jacksonville, Ill.

COST-CUTTING MEASURES URGED BY U. OF I. HEAD

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — John E. Corbally Jr., president of the University of Illinois, has proposed several general cost-cutting measures, including elimination of some $5.9 million in current programs to meet budget restrictions next semester.

Corbally reported Wednesday to the university trustees that the steps are tentatively planned to meet a budget imposed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The proposal included lopping off $1.5 million in tuition waivers, which would equal elimination of 3,000 of the 8,000 waivers held by undergraduates on the school's three campuses.

Corbally said that $17.7 million would be needed above existing programs to continue the budget allots in the fiscal year starting July 1. But he said his proposed belt tightening would only free about $11.8 million, leaving a $5.9 million shortfall.

Among Corbally's proposed cost slashes were an estimated $6.1 million through increasing work loads and lowering the quality of some supporting services. He said another $3.4 million could be freed by dipping into some special revolving funds and by imposing a new $35 fee for student health services.

Corbally estimated an additional $800,000 could be found through savings, still leaving the university $5.9 million short.

The report did not include specific program cut proposals.

Officials Of Steinberg-Baum Indicted

CHICAGO (AP) — Five officials of the bankrupt Steinberg-Baum discount store chain were indicted Wednesday on charges that they took sales money from cash registers and failed to pay state sales taxes on it.

The indictment charged the men with conspiring to remove money from registers and to file state income tax returns which did not reflect $32 million in sales between Jan. 1, 1968 and Jan. 30, 1971.

Sales tax on the missing money would have amounted to about $1.5 million.

The men also were charged with mail fraud.

Named were Frank Baum, 50, Highland Park, former president of the firm; Louis Steinberg, 49, Highland Park, former vice president, and Leonard Freedman, 53, Skokie, a former general manager.

The three also were indicted in April on charges of embezzling $6.8 million from Cosmopolitan National Bank of Chicago.

BOARD APPROVES TUITION FEE HIKE
CHICAGO (UPI) — The Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities has approved a tuition fee increase of about $75 for in-state students and $222 for out-of-state students for the school year 1972-73, school year at its five member institutions.

The action Wednesday reaffirmed board approval granted at its January, 1971, meeting.

At that time implementation was held off because the board had not received sufficient legislative authorization for allocation of the funds.

Russ Lose Lead In A-Particle Acceleration

BATAVIA, Ill. (AP) — The Soviet Union has lost its lead in high-energy atomic particle acceleration.

The world's largest atom-smasher, under construction since 1969, successfully accelerated a beam of protons to 100 billion electron volts (BEV). That easily tops the Russian accelerator at Serpukhov, with its 76 BEVs and dwarfs the 33-BEV instrument at Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island, previously America's largest.

But the test, which occurred last Friday, isn't the top limit for the facility 30 miles west of Chicago. It's designed for 200 BEV and may be boosted to that point in a few weeks, according to Dr. Edwin L. Goldwasser, deputy director of the National Accelerator Laboratory.

Goldwasser says that scientists and engineers on the project incorporated a number of innovations that may enable the instrument to attain 500 BEV.

The instrument is the largest scientific apparatus ever built. Its main feature is a ring 1.25 miles in diameter. Sum-atomic particles course around the ring at near-light-speed (186,200 miles per second).

Protons, the elementary particles that exist in the nuclei of atoms, are injected into the big accelerator by a series of three smaller booster accelerators.

Once in the big ring, they make the four-mile circumference 70,000 times in 1.6 seconds. When they reach top speed, the particles are directed into target atoms, smashing them apart. Scientists hope the flying fragments in the study of learning more about the basic building blocks of nature.

The facility cost $250 million and covers 6,000 acres. It is expected to go into full operation in June.

Bakalis Raps Present Teacher Certification

CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois' superintendent of public instruction said Thursday night he will seek reforms in 1972 of teacher certification standards, supervision of schools and school finance and a thorough reassessment of curriculum relevancy.

Michael J. Bakalis delivered his first "State of Education" address at the annual convention of the Illinois Education Association.

He said the present system of teacher certification is a clerical process and that his office will make recommendations for changes "based on the premise that equal access to quality education for all is dependent on the quality of the teaching profession itself."

Bakalis said the present measure of a school's recognition and supervision is decided on "exclusively quantitative considerations."

"What is urgently required is a fundamental shift in emphasis away from the inputs of education to the outcomes of education," Bakalis said.

He added that the emphasis in the past has been on tangibles such as number of courses, adequacy of lighting, library size and cleanliness of lunchrooms.

Leland Hotel Will Be Site Of SSU Classes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — President Robert C. Spencer of Sangamon State University Thursday announced Selection of the old Leland Hotel building as a downtown facility to be known as the Capital Campus.

The first campus of the two-year upper division university is operating in interim facilities near Lake Springfield, serving about 2,500 students.

About 500 students are anticipated to attend class this fall in the hotel facility, in compliance with a Board of Higher Education mandate to serve the inner city near government and business.

The first three floors of the hotel will be remodeled to accommodate classrooms, meeting rooms, a branch library, and offices and counseling areas.

Priest Asks For Executive Order Thursday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A Springfield priest asked Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Thursday to issue an executive order barring the use of fraternal lodges with racial segregation policies as sites for meetings of tax-supported groups.

The Rev. Frank Westhoff, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church, charged in a letter to Ogilvie that one such lodge, the Elks Club, "relegates minority people to the same category as Communists and moral degenerates."

Westhoff and Bill White, executive director of the Springfield Human Relations Council, also said at a news conference that the Sangamon County Republican organization should refrain from its custom of meeting in the Elks Club. Westhoff maintained in reply to a question he was "not aware" of any Democratic party meetings in similar lodges.

"There may be some somewhere in the country, though," he said.

A spokesman for Ogilvie said that few such executive orders are issued and that the question would have to be studied further.

Attorney Samuel Patton, a director of the Springfield Elks Club, reached by telephone, said, "there are no black members of the Elks Club. That comes from our national charter. They have their own organizations."

"We're not segregated, though," he said. "Anyone can use our facilities... a state group or the Republican party or anyone else."

Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, which is a part of the governor's office, had held a meeting in the Charleston Elks Club in November, he added. There are several black commission members.

Local ASCS To Close Monday

Since Monday, Feb. 21, is a national holiday, in observance of George Washington's birthday the Morgan county ASCS office will be closed that day, according to Gloyd Leavelle, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee.

"We're right in the middle of the sign-up period for the 1972 farm set aside programs, so it's particularly important that farmers know the office will be closed that day," he explained. "We sure don't want a farmer making a special trip to town just to sign up in the farm programs and then discover it's a holiday, and the office is closed."

The sign-up period for the 1972 feed grain and wheat programs continues through March 10, and farmers may come in to sign up any time between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday — except Monday, Feb. 21. It is the only holiday which will occur during the sign-up period.

The actual anniversary of Washington's birthday is February 22, but since passage of the "Monday holiday" law by Congress, the holiday is observed on the third Monday in February, whatever the date.

ILIC Members Named Thursday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Replacements were named Thursday by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, GOP minority leader, for two senators who quit the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

Sens. G. William Horsley, R-Springfield, and Harris Fawell, R-Naperville, resigned recently.

Horsley said he quit because he considered proposed commission visits to New York, New Orleans, Boston and Los Angeles to study hospital operations as boondoggling. The commission is probing Cook County Hospital operations.

Fawell said he quit because the commission agenda left him too little time for other legislative business.

Sens. Donald Carpenter, R-Rock Island, and Jack E. Walker, R-Lansing, were named by Arrington as replacements.

State Will Begin Tax Crackdown

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The State of Illinois is going to begin a crackdown in 1972 on corporations and individuals who have not filed state income tax returns, George Mahin, Illinois revenue director, said Thursday.

"There has been word around the street that you don't have to worry about the state income tax returns—that controls weren't tight enough to catch business income tax evaders," Mahin said. "Well, those that thought that are in for a shock."

Mahin said the state has lost millions of dollars due to the failure of some businesses and individuals to file state returns. The tax went into effect in August 1969.

He said the revenue department began comparing state and federal income tax returns for individuals in December and that a similar probe into business tax returns will begin soon.

He said he suspects that some businesses have not only failed to pay their 2½ per cent income tax but have also failed to turn over state taxes withheld for their employees.

"I don't know how many companies have not filed returns," Mahin said, "but I am convinced that there are hundreds—and probably many more—which have cost the state many millions of dollars in revenue."
